See Slight Upturn In U.S. Economy In Past Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — A very slight upturn in real national output—but enough to erase fears of a serious recession—is expected in the second quarter Gross National Product report due Friday.

A preliminary estimate of the GNP—which measures the value of all goods and services produced—showed such an increase, government sources said.

If the increase has survived the usual last-minute revisions, it will cheer the Republican administration by indicating the economy will be safely on the upgrade by the November congressional elections.

It would be almost equally cheering if the real GNP merely held even or close to even, for that would indicate the sag in real output—a drop of $5.5 billion in the first quarter—had been halted and the decline was “bottoming out” only a little bit later than President Nixon's economists had predicted.

Continued weakness in the goods-producing sector of the economy was shown Wednesday, however, by the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production for June.

That indicator of the output of factories, mines and refineries showed a dip of three-tenths of 1 per cent in June for the third consecutive month. The index stood at 168.6 per cent of the 1957-9 average, or 3.4 per cent under the peak reached last summer.

This continued a downtrend begun last August, broken only by small increases in February and March. Output of business and defense equipment and materials slipped further, to a rate 8.5 per cent below the peak last fall.

It would be quite possible for the industrial production index to decline while the real GNP rose. The GNP includes a vast range of service, financial, commercial and governmental activities not covered by the industrial production index.

Author-Doctor Eric Berne Dies

CARMEL, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Eric Berne, who wrote “Games People Play” in 1964 as a psychiatry textbook and saw it become a best-seller, is dead at 60. The Canadian-born psychiatrist-author suffered a heart attack walking on the beach June 28. He died Wednesday in Carmel Community Hospital.

Berne had lived here since 1946 and also maintained a home in San Francisco where he was a lecturer at the University of California Medical Center.

Recovery efforts Wednesday concentrated on the captain's cabin. Divers said the cabin door was jammed and efforts to pry it open were hampered by strong currents.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said the ship, bound from Sorel, Que., for Saginaw, Mich., was outside a clearly marked channel when it hit the shoal.

Ax Wielders Eye Pentagon Budget Request

$10 Billion Cut Would Hit Outlays For Weapons, Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's budget, already described as pared to the bone, is faced with demands of up to $10 billion in further cuts as the defense spending debate shifts to the Senate.

The first attempted cutback is likely to come early next week when the Senate considers the military procurement bill for hardware such as the antiballistic missile, big bombers, giant jet transports, offensive missiles and bigger tanks.

The Senate Armed Services Committee, releasing the procurement bill Wednesday, cut the Nixon administration's $20.3 billion hardware request, approved by the House, to $19.2 billion.

The bill is one of a series of measures that comprise the Defense Department's budget for this fiscal year. The total amount requested by the administration is $71.2 billion.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called the House-approved hardware bill austere and “the lowest possible dollar level consistent with the necessity for providing for our national survival.”

However, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leader of the Pentagon spending critics, declared, “More needs to be done.”

He presented a 100-page detailed report of his group outlining some $10 billion in cuts and a redefinition of national security aims.

The Proxmire group's proposals would cut $5 billion for hardware and an equal amount for manpower.

The proposed cuts would reduce the ABM to research levels, halt work on the B1 bomber, antisubmarine aircraft, F14 and (Continued on Page 18)

Army 'Loses' Soldier For 20 Months

FORT LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — Pvt. Albert Breinz, 22, unpaid, uncontacted and apparently misplaced by the Army for 20 months, was on his way to Vietnam Thursday morning.

Attorneys for the Youngstown, Ohio, soldier filed an application for a writ of habeas corpus in federal court in nearby Tacoma to keep Breinz at Ft. Lewis but couldn't find a judge available to hear arguments for a restraining order.

He was shipped to Vietnam late Wednesday, after a brief reprieve granted at the request of Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash. Breinz said he applied for compassionate reassignment in August, 1968, because of then pressing problems, was properly processed and ordered to go home and await orders.

He said the Army made no effort to contact him—nor was he paid—for the next 20 months. He said he contacted his recruiting sergeant at home but was told to wait for orders because “the Army doesn't make mistakes like that.” He returned to Ft. Lewis at his own expense April, immediately after his wife received a notice from the Army Payroll Center inquiring about his status.

The Army began an AWOL investigation, but dismissed the case. It was ruled, however, Breinz would have to serve the lost time. Breinz, who enlisted in 1967, was scheduled to be discharged last month.

of the battle was near. It called back a force of 1,400 mercenaries that had been sent up the east flank of the plateau and had made no contact with the enemy. They were three miles from the main resort area when recalled.

The mercenaries are Cambodians from South Vietnam's Mekong Delta who were recruited and trained by the U.S. Special Forces for the war in Vietnam. There was some speculation

Britain To Call Out Troops In National Dock Walkout

Young British Royalty Visits U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne, arriving today for their first visit to the United States, will be treated to a contrasting slice of Americana ranging from hot dogs and bourbon balls to baseball and rock music.

There will be no romantic interludes between the festivities, the White House insisted as questions persisted about the possibility of a budding romance between the 21-year-old heir to the British throne and President Nixon's 24-year-old daughter, Tricia.

“About a romance—how can you rule it out in advance?” a very British reporter asked Constance Stuart, Mrs. Nixon's press aide, who had described the visit as a casual encounter between friends.

She stuttered and sputtered, then good-naturedly said she guessed she couldn't on that one.

The prince and princess will be flown by presidential jet from Canada, where they spent a triumphal two weeks helping Canada celebrate the centennial of its Northwest territories. They will return to London Saturday night.

Although their visit is not considered a state affair, trumpets are heralding their arrival at the White House lawn and President Nixon is personally greeting them.

After refreshments in the portrait-filled Blue Room—including ing that of President James Madison who fled shortly before the British Army burned the White House in 1814—the royal couple will helicopter with Tricia, Julie and David Eisenhower and 20 of their friends to Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains for a picnic.

The young Eisenhowers and Tricia will show the Britishers some of Washington's landmark monuments by night.

The couple will tour the Capitol Friday and meet with House Speaker John McCormack and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

At the Smithsonian Institution, Astronauts Frank Borman and Neil Armstrong will describe the space exhibits and present Princess Anne with a rock of Smithsonian and the prince with a piece of antique American china.

Friday night, with the President likely looking from the balcony, the royal couple will mingle with 700 guests at a late-night buffet supper and dance to two rock music bands on the White House lawn.

Music will be by one of Canada's top rock groups, “The Guess Who,” and by a vigorous American, Gary Puckett. At midnight there will be fireworks on the lawn.

Saturday's schedule calls for a visit to the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, in Laurel, Md., to see scientists' work with endangered species such as the whooping crane, and a baseball game at the Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

Anti-Bombing Laws Studied

React To Wave Of Terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bomb-throwing terrorist, a figure rarely seen in recent U.S. history, has re-emerged in the spotlight of separate Senate and House probes.

The result may be new federal laws regulating the explosives industry and controlling the sale and shipment of dynamite, nitroglycerin and other bomb components.

Another possibility, included in a bill already proposed by President Nixon, is a set of new stringent federal criminal laws providing the death penalty for persons convicted of the illegal interstate transportation of explosives used in fatal bombings.

That proposal has aroused some members of Congress who say they fear opening a legal door to government repression of all political and social dissent, not just that which veers toward violence.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, cautioned Wednesday against measures so repressive “they could end up by destroying the freedoms we are trying to preserve.”

Javits said the current rash of bombings may well subside with the end of the Vietnam war, adding, “All too often we have adopted laws that were right and proper at the time but have returned to haunt us when the immediate problem no longer exists.”

Will Wilson, an assistant attorney general, told the House Judiciary Committee the Nixon administration has formed a Cabinet-level task force to respond to the recent plague of bombings and may change course—from punitive measures toward an endorsement of strict regulation and licensing.

Young Wants Probe Of Prison Cruelty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said Wednesday the Senate should investigate reports of increased cruelty and brutality toward inmates at the Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus.

Young cited a published account of alleged brutal practices and said the blame must be placed on Maury Koblentz, state corrections chief.

Senate Panel Backs Funds For Action In Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has endorsed U.S. financing of South Vietnamese raids into Cambodia, while forbidding the use of Pentagon funds to bolster the Phnom Penh government.

The in-between policy was recommended Wednesday by the Senate as part of a $19.2 billion military authorization bill, but it may be a month before the Indochina aspects of the legislation reach a vote.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the committee chairman, said the situation may change drastically by then. He left open the possibility his panel might reconsider the issue to take into account any changed conditions later in the summer.

At the State Department, meanwhile, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said immediate prospects for a peace settlement in South Vietnam “are not too bright.”

But he also said, “I have always felt, and I still feel, that there is a reasonable prospect that you can end this war by a negotiated settlement.” That reversed the emphasis of a statement he made in London Sunday.

Rogers said for the next two months or so, the aftermath of U.S. and South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia had lessened the prospects for successful negotiations. But he said over the long run, action against the Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia had increased settlement chances.

The Armed Services Committee proposal provides a basis in law for U.S. financial support of future Cambodian sanctuary operations by South Vietnam and its allies.

The bill authorizes up to $2.5 billion for support of South Vietnamese and allied forces, and for aid to local forces in Laos and Thailand.

“There is no intent to broaden the authorization beyond the support of participation in border sanctuary and related operations in order to protect U.S. forces in Vietnam or to accomplish protective reaction strikes,” the committee said in its report on the bill.

“The purpose of the clarification is to make clear that the use of defense funds is authorized for support in those areas of Cambodia where for the purposes of Vietnamization or the protection of U.S. troops military action becomes necessary,” the committee said.

The Senate earlier adopted an amendment including a ban against U.S. financial support of foreign forces which might move into Cambodia to support the government there.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the sponsors of that amendment, said the committee's terms seemed to be in line with it. “They move toward our amendment,” he said.

A House-Senate conference committee began Wednesday its efforts to work out a compromise on the foreign military sales legislation which includes the Cambodian amendment.

It got nowhere, and agreed to try again next Tuesday.

Israeli Troops Hit Lebanese

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli troops entered Lebanon early today, destroyed three buildings in a border village and withdrew without suffering casualties, the Israeli military command announced.

A spokesman said the attack on the village of Qala was in retaliation for attacks on Arab guerrillas using Lebanon as a springboard for raiding small border towns. It was the first sizable Israeli crossing into Lebanon since May 12, when a massive antiguerrilla sweep was made.

The Israelis claim that during June and July Lebanon-based terrorists have attacked 15 border towns, killing one Israeli civilian and wounding 22.

Elsewhere in Cambodia, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops for the second time this week attacked the military depot at Long Vek, 35 miles north of Phnom Penh, but failed to push into the base, the military spokesman said. He said at least two Cambodian soldiers were killed. South Vietnamese

Long Strike Would Strangle Food Supplies

LONDON (AP) — The British government was expected to declare a state of emergency today, clearing the way to send the army onto the nation's strikebound docks to unload food cargos.

The country's first national dock strike in 44 years, called Wednesday night after representatives of the dockers rejected a proposed pay increase, stopped loading and unloading at Britain's 40 major ports and took 47,000 longshoremen off the docks.

“It looks like a long one; I can see no way out,” said the docks organizer for the Transport and General Workers Union, Tim O'Leary.

The docks normally handle $600 million worth of goods and raw materials a week, and every industry in the island nation will be hit within days.

Auto manufacturers estimate they will lose nearly $20 million worth of export sales for every working day the docks are shut down. However, most plants close for annual vacations at the end of next week. And gas and oil supplies are expected to hold up, since the petroleum companies have their own port facilities.

Food supplies were the major concern.

The Ministry of Agriculture said there was less than a month's supply of meat in cold storage; 30 per cent of the beef and 55 per cent of the lamb Britain eats is imported.

Other stocks on hand include six weeks' butter and two (Continued on Page 2)

SOMETHING appears to be amiss in Roundtown... The planter in front of the city building has bigger, brighter red and more geraniums than any other planter in the business district... We thought the problem was solved when it was suggested that perhaps policemen on the night beat were swapping geraniums... Then somebody came up with the idea the mayor was giving the planter an extra shot of water early in the morning... And then it was suggested that some of the verbal fertilizer from council chambers overflowed into the planter... And so the reason for the bigger geraniums remains a mystery.

AND speaking of mysteries, there is something “fishy” behind the Police Department... Word is out the Fraternal Order of Police members have a large supply of “Scioto River bass” on hand for the annual fish fry held in conjunction with the Sidewalk Sales... Being true fish fry gourmets, the officers have imported a supply of sassafras from Muttonjerk for the cooking fires... Time was when the police had a monopoly on fine cuisine at Sidewalk sales, but this year the Pickaway Pork Council will offer barbecued pork chops.

Cambodians Set Drive On Kiri Rom Area

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Four Cambodian army battalions moved into position south of the Kiri Rom plateau today, preparing for a drive on the mountain resort 50 miles west of Phnom Penh. There was speculation that most of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese had pulled back into the jungle.

Two battalions were poised on the southern edge of the 2,000-foot-high playland. They reported taking enemy rifle fire but said they had not been hit by mortars.

Two more battalions that were badly mauled Tuesday had regrouped and were again moving toward the plateau.

Officers on the scene said they believed the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops who overran the resort five days ago had largely disappeared.

The Cambodian command also appeared to believe the end of the battle was near. It called back a force of 1,400 mercenaries that had been sent up the east flank of the plateau and had made no contact with the enemy. They were three miles from the main resort area when recalled.

The mercenaries are Cambodians from South Vietnam's Mekong Delta who were recruited and trained by the U.S. Special Forces for the war in Vietnam. There was some speculation among the strike forces that the Cambodian army wanted sole credit for retaking the plateau after the humiliation of being driven from it.

Indications were that more than 200 Cambodian troops were killed, wounded or missing. Total enemy losses were not known.

Kiri Rom area has no apparent military value. The aim of the enemy appeared to be to knock out as many government units as it could, then pull out when the government force got too big.

Elsewhere in Cambodia, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops for the second time this week attacked the military depot at Long Vek, 35 miles north of Phnom Penh, but failed to push into the base, the military spokesman said. He said at least two Cambodian soldiers were killed. South Vietnamese

Seek Bodies On Wreckage Of Vessel

CORNWALL, Ont. (AP) — Divers resume a search in the St. Lawrence Seaway today for the bodies of five persons missing in the sinking of the Eastcliffe Hall.

The 3,335-ton vessel, loaded with pig iron, went to the bottom Tuesday night three minutes after striking Chrysler Shoal. Four bodies were recovered Wednesday and 12 persons swam to safety or were rescued by launches.

The Eastcliffe Hall, which was owned by Hall Shipping, Ltd., of Montreal, rests in 70 feet of water 18 miles west of Cornwall.

Hours after the sinking the bodies of Capt. Richard Groulx, 52, of Montreal; chief engineer William Demers, 46, of Charlesbourg, Que., his wife Jacqueline, and their 6-year-old daughter, Natalie, were recovered.

Missing still are the captain's son, Alain, 16; Lawrence MacDougall, 33, Kentville, N. S.; Freeman Barter, 29, Ramea, Nfld.; Leonard Harris, 48, New Chelsea, Nfld., and Louis Bourcier, 59, Montreal.

SOMETHING appears to be amiss in Roundtown... The planter in front of the city building has bigger, brighter red and more geraniums than any other planter in the business district...

We thought the problem was solved when it was suggested that perhaps policemen on the night beat were swapping geraniums... Then somebody came up with the idea the mayor was giving the planter an extra shot of water early in the morning...

And then it was suggested that some of the verbal fertilizer from council chambers overflowed into the planter... And so the reason for the bigger geraniums remains a mystery.

AND speaking of mysteries, there is something “fishy” behind the Police Department... Word is out the Fraternal Order of Police members have a large supply of “Scioto River bass” on hand for the annual fish fry held in conjunction with the Sidewalk Sales...

Being true fish fry gourmets, the officers have imported a supply of sassafras from Muttonjerk for the cooking fires...

Time was when the police had a monopoly on fine cuisine at Sidewalk sales, but this year the Pickaway Pork Council will offer barbecued pork chops.

Cambodians Set Drive On Kiri Rom Area

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Four Cambodian army battalions moved into position south of the Kiri Rom plateau today, preparing for a drive on the mountain resort 50 miles west of Phnom Penh. There was speculation that most of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese had pulled back into the jungle.

Two battalions were poised on the southern edge of the 2,000-foot-high playland. They reported taking enemy rifle fire but said they had not been hit by mortars.

Two more battalions that were badly mauled Tuesday had regrouped and were again moving toward the plateau.

Officers on the scene said they believed the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops who overran the resort five days ago had largely disappeared.

The Cambodian command also appeared to believe the end of the battle was near. It called back a force of 1,400 mercenaries that had been sent up the east flank of the plateau and had made no contact with the enemy. They were three miles from the main resort area when recalled.

The mercenaries are Cambodians from South Vietnam's Mekong Delta who were recruited and trained by the U.S. Special Forces for the war in Vietnam. There was some speculation among the strike forces that the Cambodian army wanted sole credit for retaking the plateau after the humiliation of being driven from it.

Indications were that more than 200 Cambodian troops were killed, wounded or missing. Total enemy losses were not known.

Kiri Rom area has no apparent military value. The aim of the enemy appeared to be to knock out as many government units as it could, then pull out when the government force got too big.

Elsewhere in Cambodia, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops for the second time this week attacked the military depot at Long Vek, 35 miles north of Phnom Penh, but failed to push into the base, the military spokesman said. He said at least two Cambodian soldiers were killed. South Vietnamese

House Ends Import Quota Work; Breaks Precedent

WASHINGTON (AP) — House tax writers have wrapped up a precedent-breaking bill to limit imports by continuing the present system of quotas on foreign oil.

The House Ways and Means Committee completed its basic decisions late Wednesday on the strongly protectionist bill, which breaks with the country's free-trade policies dating to the New Deal of the 1930s.

Oil imports are subject now to quotas under national security legislation broad enough to allow the president to use other control methods.

As the committee was finishing its report, the State Department's top economic expert was forecasting the possibility of a business war between the United States and its main trading partners.

"There is a danger of trade war if everybody gets into an eye-for-eye policy," Nathaniel Samuels, deputy undersecretary of state for economic affairs, said in an interview.

The basic trouble, Samuels said, is an increase in protectionist sentiment all over the world. "The question is: Can we contain it?" he added.

He referred to a fear that the European Common Market might retaliate, perhaps by imposing heavy duties on American soybeans, should Congress approve textile import quotas proposed by the Ways and Means Committee.

Ways and Means proposed Tuesday quotas be established on textile articles and shoes.

The committee plan would allow the president to order quotas on other imports deemed to threaten U.S. industries.

A Cabinet committee, in a split decision, had recommended President Nixon shift to a tariff system for oil. Nixon has kept the matter under advisement, ordering studies by another group.

In another decision Wednesday, the committee gave the president authority to increase imports of articles, despite quotas, when he finds the supply insufficient to meet U.S. demand at reasonable prices.

The suit filed by Malcolm B. Vilas Jr. of Gates Mills and Allen B. Pretzman of Lakewood says Eaton asked Vilas in 1963 to locate "a Canadian company or companies" for possible acquisition.

Vilas and Pretzman say they located Timberland-Elliott Ltd. of Woodstock, Ont., and certain of its affiliates and that Eaton agreed to pay a commission of 2.75 per cent if the deal was consummated by Nov. 1, 1965.

In September, 1964, Eaton allegedly told Vilas it was no longer interested in the Canadian firm. But in August, 1967, Eaton announced purchase of Timberland - Elliott Ltd. and its affiliates for $11.2 million, the petition stated.

Vilas and Pretzman charged that Eaton "unjustly enriched itself at (their) expense" by consummating the deal "through bad faith and unfair dealing."

The Canadian firm produces four-wheel pneumatic-tired machines called Timberjacks, used in the logging industry for hauling timber.

Eight Injured In Three-Car Collision

A driving rain was a contributing factor in a three-car accident which injured eight people at 12:03 a.m. Thursday on Route 23 near Radcliff Road.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Daniel L. Brust, 18, Route 1, struck the rear of an auto driven by Robert B. Triplehorn, 18, Route 1, causing it to strike the rear of a car driven by Ronald Caudill, 18, Ragland, W. Va.

Treated at Berger Hospital for injuries suffered in the mishap were Triplehorn who had a lacerated knee and members of a Ragland, W. Va. family in the Caudill vehicle.

Caudill was treated for back and neck abrasions, Lottie Hensley, 32, had stomach injuries, Janet Hensley, 16, nose injury, Bernice Hensley, 14, a cut eye, Harold Hensley 8, abrasions of the head, Fred Hensley, 4, nose injury and Ted Hensley, 4, nose injury.

Brust was cited by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy John Bost for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead.

All three drivers stated visibility was poor due to the rainstorm.

The real GNP has become the most closely watched of all government indicators since the onset of inflation, because it measures the value of total output in 1958 dollars and thus eliminates the effect of inflation.

The conventional GNP, which measures output in current dollars, is expected to show a further sizeable rise for the April-June quarter, caused mainly by price increases. It hit an annual rate of $59.6 billion in the January-March quarter, for an illusory rise of $7.4 billion while real output went down.

The usual definition of a recession is a decline in real GNP lasting two consecutive quarters. Technically the present slowdown already has qualified as a recession, because of dips of $800 million in fourth-quarter 1969 and $5.5 billion in first-quarter 1970.

But the late-1969 decline was so small as to be statistically insignificant. Administration economists have not admitted a recession, and the second-quarter 1970 figure has been awaited as an important clue to the severity of the slowdown.

Prelate Says Red Chinese Treated Him Well

HONG KONG (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh said today his treatment during 12 years imprisonment in Red China was "always humane—the meals were good and ample, medical attention was good."

The 79-year-old prelate, who was freed July 8, told a news conference that although his Communist captors interrogated him "morning, noon and night" for 18 months, until he finally signed a confession to spying, he never was beaten or physically mistreated.

It was "just mental pressure," said the bishop, who is slowly getting his strength back in the Hong Kong hospital operated by his Maryknoll Order.

"Despite his long imprisonment, he said he had 'no bitterness toward those who tried and condemned me.'"

"I just could never feel angry with any Chinese," he said.

Speaking from a wheelchair, Bishop Walsh said he will rest a few more weeks in the hospital, "then return to my homeland."

His home is in Cumberland, Md., and he said he also hopes to go to Rome to visit Pope Paul VI when he can travel.

The bishop said he was arrested in Shanghai in 1958 for allegedly possessing "state secret information about a submarine built in Shanghai and about Chinese weapons used in the Korean War."

He would not name the firms. Injunctions, rather than criminal penalties of up to $2,500 in fines and one year in prison, will be sought because the department believes "the injunctions are the things that will help the environment, not the fines," the source said.

The approval for the suits came as Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., threatened to take legal action against the Justice Department unless it began enforcing the 71-year-old Refuse Act.

The law prohibits dumping "any refuse matter of any kind or description" into navigable waters or their tributaries. The only exemption is sewage.

The source of Ottinger's ire, and that of a number of conservation groups backing him in the threatened action, is a set of guidelines for use of the statute sent out June 15 by the Justice Department to all U.S. attorneys.

The guidelines prohibit the attorneys from taking action against polluters without department approval if the polluter is involved in proceedings with the Federal Water Quality Administration or state or local water pollution control agencies, and if the polluter is a state, county, city or other political subdivision.

In a statement of policy accompanying the guidelines, the department said the Refuse Act should not be used "in competition with the Federal Water Pollution Control Act or with state pollution abatement procedures."

The statement said the attorneys could initiate court action against "discharges, which are accidental or infrequent, but which are not of a continuing nature resulting from the ordinary operations of a manufacturing plant."

"Discharges of this last type, of course, pose the greatest threat to the environment—but it is precisely this type of discharge that the Congress created the Federal Water Quality Administration to decrease or eliminate..." the statement concluded.

The department contended, however, the guidelines are not intended to discourage use of the Refuse Act but merely to coordinate the attorneys' work with that of other agencies.

"We have approved every request to bring action against polluters that we have received," the source said.

He also contended the guidelines increase the instances in which U.S. attorneys can bring actions on their own, despite some grumbling that the guidelines tie their hands.

"Those attorneys who have read the guidelines are finding it very easy to go ahead," the source said.

Ohio Power Co. had attempted to block the move, saying North Central was not a public utility and that the village had no authority to enter into a contract with the firm.

The Supreme Court decision upheld two lower court opinions.

In another case, the court ruled against Herbert E. Agnew of Mount Vernon, injured Jan. 14, 1966, when a police cruiser without operating flasher or siren speeded through an intersection and hit his car.

Since the policeman was responding to an emergency call, the high court ruled, he was protected by law from personal damage suits.

The court upheld an appeals court reversal of a Huron County Common Pleas Court decision that awarded $17,500 to John D. Darnell, injured in a June 4, 1966, auto accident.

In that case, the high court said no expert medical witnesses were offered to establish a connection between the injury and accident.

James Johnson, 35, who had been suspended earlier in the day for insubordination, was arrested after two foremen and a production worker were shot down Wednesday with an M-1 carbine.

Johnny Moffett, chief steward of United Auto Workers union Local 931, said he saw the man shoot one person and ran to him saying "I was a union representative—I wanted to help him, not to hurt him."

Moffett said the man "pointed the gun at me and pulled the trigger" but that there was only a click because the weapon apparently was empty. Moffett said the man told him he was angry because a man with less time on the payroll had taken over his work assignment.

The union official said he escorted the gunman to a gate and turned him over to a company guard.

An auto owned by Robert Hartinger, Route 1, was damaged by fire just before 11 a.m. Wednesday at the corner of Mingo and Mound Sts. Circleville Fire Department estimated damage to the carburetor and hood of the 1966 model car at $20.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 52 at Marquette, Mich., to 101 at Blythe, Calif.

U.S. attorneys will be authorized to invoke the Refuse Act of 1899 against five polluters in Bridgeport, Conn., the city of Bridgeport and a chemical firm in Cleveland, Ohio, a Justice

House Ends Import Quota Work; Breaks Precedent

WASHINGTON (AP) — House tax writers have wrapped up a precedent-breaking bill to limit imports by continuing the present system of quotas on foreign oil.

The House Ways and Means Committee completed its basic decisions late Wednesday on the strongly protectionist bill, which breaks with the country's free-trade policies dating to the New Deal of the 1930s.

Oil imports are subject now to quotas under national security legislation broad enough to allow the president to use other control methods.

As the committee was finishing its report, the State Department's top economic expert was forecasting the possibility of a business war between the United States and its main trading partners.

"There is a danger of trade war if everybody gets into an eye-for-eye policy," Nathaniel Samuels, deputy undersecretary of state for economic affairs, said in an interview.

The basic trouble, Samuels said, is an increase in protectionist sentiment all over the world. "The question is: Can we contain it?" he added.

He referred to a fear that the European Common Market might retaliate, perhaps by imposing heavy duties on American soybeans, should Congress approve textile import quotas proposed by the Ways and Means Committee.

Ways and Means proposed Tuesday quotas be established on textile articles and shoes. The committee plan would allow the president to order quotas on other imports deemed to threaten U.S. industries.

A cabinet committee, in a split decision, had recommended President Nixon shift to a tariff system for oil. Nixon has kept the matter under advisement, ordering studies by another group.

In another decision Wednesday, the committee gave the president authority to increase imports of articles, despite quotas, when he finds the supply insufficient to meet U.S. demand at reasonable prices.

The suit filed by Malcolm B. Vilas Jr. of Gates Mills and Allen B. Pretzman of Lakewood says Eaton asked Vilas in 1963 to locate "a Canadian company or companies" for possible acquisition.

Vilas and Pretzman say they located Timberland-Elliott Ltd. of Woodstock, Ont., and certain of its affiliates and that Eaton agreed to pay a commission of 2.75 per cent if the deal was consummated by Nov. 1, 1965.

In September, 1964, Eaton allegedly told Vilas it was no longer interested in the Canadian firm. But in August, 1967, Eaton announced purchase of Timberland - Elliott Ltd. and its affiliates for $11.2 million, the petition stated.

Vilas and Pretzman charged that Eaton "unjustly enriched itself at their expense" by consummating the deal "through bad faith and unfair dealing."

The Canadian firm produces four-wheel pneumatic-tired machines called Timberjacks, used in the logging industry for hauling timber.

Eight Injured In Three-Car Collision

A driving rain was a contributing factor in a three-car accident which injured eight people at 12:03 a.m. Thursday on Route 23 near Radcliff Road.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Daniel L. Brust, 18, Route 1, struck the rear of an auto driven by Robert B. Triplehorn, 18, Route 1, causing it to strike the rear of a car driven by Ronald Caudill, 18, Ragland, W. Va.

Treated at Berger Hospital for injuries suffered in the mishap were Triplehorn who had a lacerated knee and members of a Ragland, W. Va. family in the Caudill vehicle.

Caudill was treated for back and neck abrasions, Lottie Hensley, 32, had stomach injuries, Janet Hensley, 16, nose injury, Bernice Hensley, 14, a cut eye, Harold Hensley 8, abrasions of the head, Fred Hensley, 4, nose injury and Ted Hensley, 4, nose injury.

Brust was cited by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy John Bost for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead.

All three drivers stated visibility was poor due to the rainstorm.

Since June, Nixon has seemed bent on building an image as a president eager for contact with ordinary citizens.

As he phrased it then, fresh from a street-crowd triumph in St. Louis, he wanted to get away from the "intellectual incest" that afflicts members of Congress who talk only to each other.

Since most congressmen are Democrats, some observers decided that Nixon, without uttering a partisan word, had subtly suggested, "Throw the rascals out!"

In any event, the crowd-hopping, handshaking Nixon of recent weeks is showing a facet of his personality rarely evident since the 1968 campaign.

He most recently exhibited the gregariousness when he signed autographs at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium during the major league All-Star game and paused to shake hands with bystanders at Louisville and downtown Cincinnati.

The President's actions contrast with additional problems when Nixon stands up in open cars, plunges into crowds, and clambers atop the hood of the famous bubbletop limousine. However, he is doing what presidents have always done.

Some people here believe that national disquiet occasioned by the intervention in Cambodia may have influenced the chief executive's change of style.

The unions had demanded a 70 per cent increase in their basic pay, from $27.92 a week to $48. The employers said this worked out to a 62 per cent increase in average weekly earnings and offered a 7 per cent increase based on improvement in the guaranteed minimum wage.

The union representatives rejected this 48 to 35, and the employers withdrew their offer, saying they would not negotiate under stress.

James Johnson, 35, who had been suspended earlier in the day for insubordination, was arrested after two foremen and a production worker were shot down Wednesday with an M-1 carbine.

Johnny Moffett, chief steward of United Auto Workers union Local 931, said he saw the man shoot one person and ran to him saying "I was a union representative—I wanted to help him, not to hurt him."

Moffett said the man "pointed the gun at me and pulled the trigger" but that there was only a click because the weapon apparently was empty. Moffett said the man told him he was angry because a man with less time on the payroll had taken over his work assignment.

The union official said he escorted the gunman to a gate and turned him over to a company guard.

An auto owned by Robert Hartinger, Route 1, was damaged by fire just before 11 a.m. Wednesday at the corner of Mingo and Mound Sts. Circleville Fire Department estimated damage to the car-buretor and hood of the 1966 model car at $20.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 52 at Marquette, Mich., to 101 at Blythe, Calif.

Prelate Says Red Chinese Treated Him Well

HONG KONG (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh said today his treatment during 12 years imprisonment in Red China was "always humane—the meals were good and ample, medical attention was good."

The 79-year-old prelate, who was freed July 8, told a news conference that although his Communist captors interrogated him "morning, noon and night" for 18 months, until he finally signed a confession to spying, he never was beaten or physically mistreated.

It was "just mental pressure," said the bishop, who is slowly getting his strength back in the Hong Kong hospital operated by his Maryknoll Order.

"Despite his long imprisonment, he said he had 'no bitterness toward those who tried and condemned me.'"

"I just could never feel angry with any Chinese," he said.

Speaking from a wheelchair, Bishop Walsh said he will rest a few more weeks in the hospital, "then return to my homeland."

His home is in Cumberland, Md., and he said he also hopes to go to Rome to visit Pope Paul VI when he can travel.

The bishop said he was arrested in Shanghai in 1958 for allegedly possessing "state secret information about a submarine built in Shanghai and about Chinese weapons used in the Korean War."

The evidence they produced," he continued, "was that a friend of mine in the shipping business in Shanghai had told me a submarine was built in Shanghai and that that was a state secret. My listening to that from the lips of my friend constituted me as a spy."

"Finally, one day I got worn out and tired with the whole thing," the bishop said. "I finally said: 'I may have become a spy in your legal sense. I know you consider all missionaries to be spies. You say these two things under your laws make me a spy and that may be true within the meaning of your legal sense but not in the commonly accepted sense."

Bishop Walsh said he signed a confession the following day, after it was "whittled down to admit that I may have become a spy in a legal sense." He added that he does not repudiate the statement now, as long as it is understood "in the proper sense."

His trial, he said, was held in the Municipal Court building in Shanghai, in a very large room, before "half a dozen" judges.

There was an audience of some hundreds of people in the room, he said.

The bishop said his defense attorney "admitted everything and really condemned me. . . . On the other hand, he said that because I was an old man and some of these things had happened years before, I should be given a little bit of leniency."

The bishop was sentenced to 20 years in prison. The announcement last weekend of his release, eight years before completion of his sentence, was coupled with the announcement that Hugh F. Redmond of Yonkers, N.Y., had committed suicide three months before in a Shanghai prison. Redmond was sentenced to life imprisonment on spy charges in 1954. The bishop said he knew nothing of Redmond's death.

Some 350 Democrats paid $25 a plate here last night to pay tribute to "Billy Joe" Brown, the party's surprise nominee for attorney general.

Brown, whose name will appear on the Nov. 4 ballot as William J. but who, at 30, is still known as Billy Joe back in Lisbon, handled it well.

"If I look a bit apprehensive up here," said Brown, "I am."

Brown, a political unknown, who had never before sought public office, took state Democratic leaders by surprise in the May 5 primary when he upset House Minority Leader John C. McDonald of Newark.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'Bad' Films Rarely As 'Good' As Hoped

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why people go to a movie and then afterwards tell everybody how filthy and disgusting it was!

Movies are rated, so they surely must know what kind of movie they are buying a ticket to see. They know in advance whether there will be nude scenes or rough language, so if that sort of thing offends them, why don't they stay home? Right or wrong?

SICK OF HYPOCRITES
DEAR SICK: You're right of course. (Such movies are rarely as "good" as expected—and by that I mean as "bad" as the viewer hoped they'd be.)

DEAR ABBY: We have a long-haired son. He is of age and was married in college. He wrote and asked if he could bring his bride to our home until he finds suitable work. We feel that his hair style is hurting his chances of getting a job. One prospective employer said he'd hire him if he cut his hair and shaved off his beard. Our son refused on the grounds that he didn't want to compromise his principles.

Abby, should we welcome him home with his bride when he has that attitude? We are undecided. We want to help him, but we don't want to go along with something we feel is hindering him. We don't support this long hair style. Please advise?

MONTANA PARENTS
DEAR PARENTS: If you really want to help your son, don't offer him bread with a hook in it. Let him bring his bride home to you, and don't tell him how to comb his hair. Also, a man who's old enough to shave is old enough to decide whether he WANTS to or not. If your son is actually unemployable because of his hair, he'll find out—which is the best way to learn.

DEAR ABBY: I resent your remark, "Save your Confederate money, the south will rise again. Maybe."

What do you mean, "Maybe?" The south IS rising again! And now!

If you Yankees would realize the war is over and accept the south back into the Union, instead of continuing to chastise it, this good ole U. S. A. would be a far better place in which to live.

Why don't you bleeding hearts start demanding that the "laws of the land" be applied equally to all sections of the country instead of just the south?

Well, it sure is strange, but in 99 per cent of the cases, it is the Yankee who brings up the subject of the Civil War. Also the majority of the visitors coming to Richmond, Va., to learn more about the Civil War history are Yankees. Don't get me wrong, I'm glad to see all those Yankees invading Richmond to spend their American dollars here. We can sure use them. Especially if we are ever going to rise over the likes of you.

VERY TRULY YOURS
X. M.: Richmond, Va.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady who wrote saying her husband loved to buy her clothes but had terrible taste.

I, too, used to have this problem, but rather than hurt his feelings, I gently steered him away from dresses, coats and clothes to be worn in public to nightgowns and lounging attire, and he can be as wild and extravagant as he wants to be. I'm genuinely thrilled as I would never spend that much money on a nightgown, and he now feels that it takes a special talent to buy sexy, expensive clothes to be worn "just for him."

This way, everybody wins. And why hurt feelings when you don't have to?

Dear Abby:

'Bad' Films Rarely As 'Good' As Hoped

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why people go to a movie and then afterwards tell everybody how filthy and disgusting it was!

Movies are rated, so they surely must know what kind of movie they are buying a ticket to see. They know in advance whether there will be nude scenes or rough language, so if that sort of thing offends them, why don't they stay home? Right or wrong?

SICK OF HYPOCRITES
DEAR SICK: You're right of course. (Such movies are rarely as "good" as expected—and by that I mean as "bad" as the viewer hoped they'd be.)

DEAR ABBY: We have a long-haired son. He is of age and was married in college. He wrote and asked if he could bring his bride to our home until he finds suitable work. We feel that his hair style is hurting his chances of getting a job. One prospective employer said he'd hire him if he cut his hair and shaved off his beard. Our son refused on the grounds that he didn't want to compromise his principles.

Abby, should we welcome him home with his bride when he has that attitude? We are undecided. We want to help him, but we don't want to go along with something we feel is hindering him. We don't support this long hair style. Please advise?

MONTANA PARENTS
DEAR PARENTS: If you really want to help your son, don't offer him bread with a hook in it. Let him bring his bride home to you, and don't tell him how to comb his hair. Also, a man who's old enough to shave is old enough to decide whether he WANTS to or not. If your son is actually unemployable because of his hair, he'll find out—which is the best way to learn.

DEAR ABBY: I resent your remark, "Save your Confederate money, the south will rise again. Maybe."

What do you mean, "Maybe"? The south IS rising again! And now!

If you Yankees would realize the war is over and accept the south back into the Union, instead of continuing to chastise it, this good ole U. S. A. would be a far better place in which to live.

Why don't you bleeding hearts start demanding that the "laws of the land" be applied equally to all sections of the country instead of just the south?

Well, it sure is strange, but in 99 per cent of the cases, it is the Yankee who brings up the subject of the Civil War. Also the majority of the visitors coming to Richmond, Va., to learn more about the Civil War history are Yankees. Don't get me wrong. I'm glad to see all those Yankees invading Richmond to spend their American dollars here. We can sure use them. Especially if we are ever going to rise over the likes of you.

VERY TRULY YOURS
X. M.: Richmond, Va.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady who wrote saying her husband loved to buy her clothes but had terrible taste.

I, too, used to have this problem, but rather than hurt his feelings, I gently steered him away from dresses, coats and clothes to be worn in public to nightgowns and lounging attire, and he can be as wild and extravagant as he wants to be. I'm genuinely thrilled as I would never spend that much money on a nightgown, and he now feels that it takes a special talent to buy sexy, expensive clothes to be worn "just for him."

This way, everybody wins. And why hurt feelings when you don't have to?

He "looks great," she said, "much more at ease than on television." She lives in Sedona, Ariz. At right is Mrs. George Tani.

Adult Misconceptions

No parent need be told that he will never fully understand the workings of a child's mind. The fascination of a child at play is enhanced by his interpretation of events around him. His logic is pure, because it is literal. Everything he sees, touches, hears or smells has a meaning to him usually far different from the impression his mother or father would receive.

And it is probably different from the impression gained by another child his own age. Because each child views his world literally and in fragments based on his own limited experience, seldom can a group of children be found which can agree on what to do.

The range and diversity of a child's interests frequently are greater than those of the adult. Society tends to limit the interests of an adult, but there are few limits to the imagination of a child. Just as a child recognizes few barriers to his curiosity, neither does he see through the eyes of an adult.

If he has experienced pain, he is more cautious about similar adventures. But if he has not, he has no experience or perspective to warn him of the consequences of his action.

This also is true of fantasy. The small child accepts make-believe, because he can see it. The adult knows it is a fraud, but enjoys it anyway.

Adults are accustomed, if frequently irritated, to be categorized by sociologists, statisticians, entertainment planners and others. But never try to put children in a mold. They have not yet been conditioned by a restrictive society, and what they say, do or think no man, or machine, can predict.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A TOUGH judge in Connecticut handed a hardened criminal concurrent sentences totalling 193 years. The defense attorney complained, "That's ridiculous. He can't possibly do it." The judge, leaving the bench, threw over his shoulder, "Tell him to do the best he can."

Some mathematical genius has figured out that if a forward-looking Roman child in the time of Caesar had deposited a single penny in a savings bank, and had let the interest compound year after year, her balance today would be considerably above twenty-four TRILLION pre-inflation dollars! Gives one pause, doesn't it?

In the days when the Algonquin wits indulged in poker orgies that sometimes lasted twenty and more hours without interruption, a weary group was still trying to fill inside straight when the doorbell rang loudly at 2:00 P.M. The New Yorker Magazine's Harold Ross looked up angrily and rasped, "Now what inconsiderate so-and-so could be calling at such an ungodly hour?"

Three weeks after a good citizen of Glasgow had won the biggest football pool of the decade (over a hundred thousand pounds), his wife asked him, "Andrew, what should I do with all the begging letters?" Andrew, engrossed in his newspaper, answered calmly, "Just keep sending them out!"

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Cesar Chavez, who has never been able to organize the California grape pickers by persuasion, is now within shouting distance of fastening compulsory unionism on the farm workers of the Southwest by his strategy of enlisting key Catholic bishops in his campaign to boycott the stores that handle non-union fruit. The grape growers have been caving in to economic pressure in distant retail markets. The spectacle of good churchmen going down the line for enforced unionism, however, has enraged individual Catholic priests who object to being used by a bishops' committee that pretends to speak for the whole Catholic hierarchy.

Two priests, the Reverend Daniel Lyons, S. J., and Father Cletus Healy, recently toured the grape-growing regions of California from the Coachella Valley near Palm Springs to the San Joaquin Valley. They found much bitter resentment that a bishops' committee should be interfering in secular economic matters. The plain fact is that the bishops who say they speak for the church are violating the Biblical injunction to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's. Caesar always had the right to collect taxes, but a union is not the equivalent of a State, and whether a man should or should not pay dues and assessments to a non-governmental body is, traditionally, a question that concerns the free choice of the individual human soul. It is, in brief, something that lies between man and god. By a strange irony Cesar Chavez happens to bear Caesar's name in its Spanish form. However, when he tries to collar human beings into his union by compulsion he is confusing his role with that of the Deity, and it is a bitter thing to be Coachella Valley grape growers, 70 per cent of whom happen to be non-Catholic, to see the spokesmen for the bishops' committee, Auxiliary Bishop Joseph Donnelly of Hartford and Monsignor George Higgins of Washington, D. C., not only backing Chavez up but also saying they intend to unionize all the farm workers in America. "As far as we can determine," so Father Lyons and Father Healy say of the Donnelly-Higgins attempt at compulsion, "is a power the committee simply usurped."

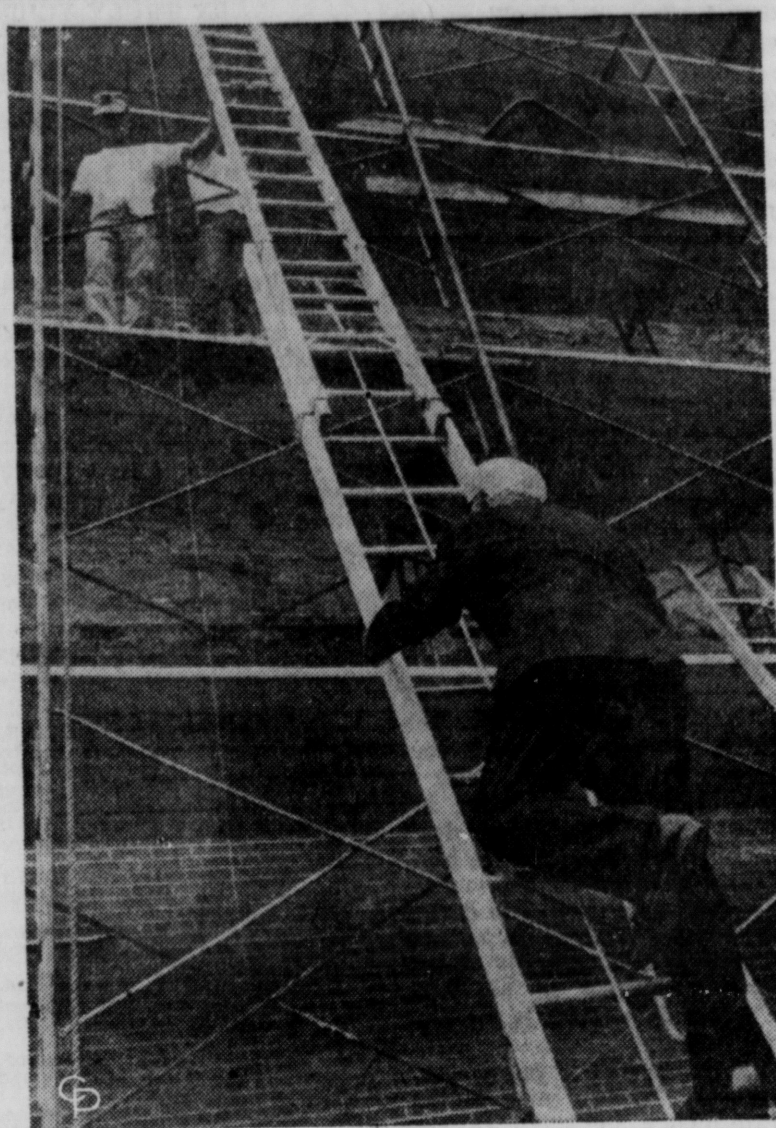

Father Lyons talked with workers, employers and local pastors, and he did not find the grape pickers to be oppressed people. They are, in fact, the highest paid agricultural workers in the nation. A pastor in Delano, where many of the pickers have year-round jobs in the vineyards, told Father Lyons and Father Healy that he often said to concerned outsiders, "Go out and find a family that is underfed and come back to me and tell me, so I can feed them." To date the pastor has had no applicants. It is "radical chic" in affluent New York City — Southampton, Long Island, circles to follow Ethel Kennedy in demanding "justice" for grape pickers. But, says Father Lyons, "do not think the workers are clamoring to join the union. As a union organizer, Cesar Chavez has failed miserably to get workers behind him."

The Chavez union, so Father Lyons would like to convey to the radical chic element among the Eastern Establishment, "is a hoax." Chavez has never been able to get more than a handful of workers to go out on strike. He has hired pickets who are non-workers from among the hippies, the members of the SDS, and the characters, whether student or not, who infest the Berkeley campus. But direct action by interlopers on the strike-picket front has always flopped for Chavez. So he turned from "la huelga" — the strike — to faraway action in front of the chain stores of Chicago, Detroit, Washington and other cities. The boycott has not worked too well in the smaller communities, but the sight of clergymen, particularly priests, picketing the retail markets has hit the big chain stores in the cash register. And the bigger California grape growers have been capitulating to the union.

Father Lyons doesn't like what the whole business is doing to his church. Large numbers of Catholics, he says, "have already been alienated from the Church . . . by the high-handed action of the bishops' committee." Coercion of workers and employers, he concludes, "ill becomes the Church Christ founded."

UP THE POLITICAL LADDER goes Arthur J. Goldberg in Amsterdam, N.Y., to shake hands with a couple of construction workers in his quest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. One of the workmen said his aides should "get a haircut."

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We attempted to interfere with some window smashing. Both offenders, according to collegiate custom, avoided trial by jumping bail. In 1836 state troops were called to the University of Virginia campus where students had taken over and were breaking into the professors' homes and amusing themselves with the inmates. At Cornell, some sophomores attempted to break up a freshman banquet and annihilate the freshman class by pumping the dining room full of chlorine gas. The gas entered the kitchen instead and killed the cook and several others were overcome. Yale students fought it out with New Haven firemen. Some of the students were seriously wounded and one student drew a pistol and killed the firemen's general.

The foregoing covers just some of the campus capers of bygone years. The days of "boola-boola," the coonskin coat, the pocket flask, when fifty-three live goldfish were swallowed to set a record, I will skip. What was bugging those Ivy Leaguers of a century and more ago? Communism must be ruled out. Marx and Engels didn't publish their book, the "Communist Manifesto" until after the mid-eighties. Marx's "Das Kapital" came later. That which can't be ruled out is "permissiveness" and the fact that it didn't originate with this generation.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Opinions now circulating that the stock market and the economy have shaken off the shock of the Penn Central Transportation bankruptcy reorganization appear to be superficial and incredibly premature.

The first shock perhaps; but in the bowels of the economy there are secondary waves that haven't surfaced, and government and business financial specialists are keenly aware of rumblings.

Effects will turn up for years, in American whistle stop hamlets and European financial centers, on campuses dependent upon dividend checks, in banks which made loans, on other railroads which need rolling stock but may find it almost impossible to finance such purchases.

What will foreign investors now think of the stability of American corporations? Will they lose faith in other companies as well?

Money from abroad has become a significant factor in American markets, the total rising to $17.2 billion in 1970 from $13.3 billion five years earlier. Such funds are a prop under some stocks. Will they be withdrawn?

And for students of corporate management: Does the Penn Central's troubles mean that the role of the director should be re-examined? Some Penn Central directors claim they were as poorly informed as the public about finances. Whose fault is that? Whose responsibility? Can any smart investor henceforth be impressed by a "big name" board, knowing that its members might be performing a function little more than ceremonial while actually sitting in ignorance?

What may be said for the institutions that put millions upon millions of their customers' money into this railroad's stock without knowing the quality of the investment?

Can they simply plead ignorance, while at the same time retaining their dignity as professional managers? Or was there a violation of fiduciary trust?

Was the Interstate Commerce Commission, which amasses data by the ton—literally—unable by existing methods to ascertain the financial condition of a line that carries 20 per cent of the nation's rail traffic?

If this is so, will a mere study of the situation, as the ICC has already launched, be sufficient to protect the public in the future? Or should the ICC itself be studied?

More important, are investor-owned railroads possible in this day and age, or must the federal government, as in so many countries, take over the rails and run them? Are railroads anachronisms, made so by trucks and planes and pipelines? Or are they simply mismanaged and misregulated? A bit of both?

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) —Everybody's different.

Americans today are thought to be a very conventional people, alike as peas in a pod, sharing the dream of making a big buck and spending it in the same way.

There is some truth to this caricature—but it remains a caricature.

We may be alike in many of the things we do, but we are very much unlike in what we don't do or haven't done. To find how much of an individual you are, sometime take the trouble to sit down and make a list of all the things you haven't got around to doing.

When you then reread the list, you'll be surprised to find how surprisingly different you are from anyone else you know.

For example, after nearly six decades of steady living, I find that I have never yet—

Owned a home.
Bought a share of stock.
Learned to drive an automobile or a motorcycle.

Lived in the suburbs.
Seen a movie at a drive-in theater.

Read "War and Peace," "Das Kapital," or "Alice in Wonderland."

Detected a counterfeit bill.
Turned in a fire alarm.
Yelled, "Stop thief!"
Made a citizen's arrest.
Been on a government pay-roll.

Won a lottery prize, a medal for bravery, or a court-martial for cowardice.

Sent away a box top for anything.

Written a letter to my congressman—or yours.

Taken the Fifth Amendment.
Grown a beard.

Held anybody in the palm of my hand or known anyone who felt like putty in my fingers.

Walked with kings.
Been asked to cast my straw in a straw vote.

On reviewing my own list of things I haven't done, I find I'm different all right. Too darned different.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

With all the pollution that surrounds us is there any way to tell if a swift flowing stream is safe as drinking water? Our families are campers and we want to be sure that we are not drinking infected water.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R., Wisconsin Dear Mr. and Mrs. R.: Long before the threat of contaminated water became such an important issue, campers were constantly warned against drinking "sparkling clear mountain fresh water." There is no relationship between the appearance of such inviting water and the possibility that it might be contaminated.

Water might even taste delicious and still contain toxic chemicals that might have been poured into the stream at some distance.

In many camping sites all over the United States, the chemical contents and the bacteria count of the water are carefully studied before campers are permitted to drink it. In many instances boiling the water is an added precaution that can prevent illness and avoid spoiling a lovely camping day.

Even swimming in streams should be done only when contamination has been guarded against.

In large and small cities everywhere, the water is constantly being tested for impurities that might unsuspectingly have polluted it. Only by such precautions can we maintain our health.

Twice I have had the unpleasant sensation of a small fly lodging in my ear. Why they pick on my right ear, and not on my left, I can't understand. What can I do if it happens again while I am gardening?

Mr. M. Z., North Carolina Dear M. Z.: I am quite certain that flies are completely unprejudiced about the ear they choose to lodge in. A wise philosopher could probably take the attitude that one should be fortunate that both ears are not invaded.

A simple measure is to anesthetize the fly by putting a few drops of ether or chloroform in the ear canal and blocking it with a piece of cotton. These anesthetics cannot hurt the ear canal and can stop the irritating flutter until the fly can be washed out by your doctor. Alcohol has been tried but it can be irritating to the skin. It might be wise, while gardening, to keep some protective covering over your ears or perhaps keep them plugged with some sheep wool.

I know that using drugs during early pregnancy can be dangerous. Is there any way to reduce the unpleasant morning sickness without them?

Mrs. L. R., Arizona Dear Mrs. R.: It's always wise to avoid medicines early in pregnancy, unless specifically prescribed by your doctor. An obstetrician once observed that eating small quantities of food may reduce the unpleasant symptoms of morning sickness.

Good and reliable sunglasses are an excellent investment and protection.

Adult Misconceptions

No parent need be told that he will never fully understand the workings of a child's mind. The fascination of a child at play is enhanced by his interpretation of events around him. His logic is pure, because it is literal. Everything he sees, touches, hears or smells has a meaning to him usually far different from the impression his mother or father would receive.

And it is probably different from the impression gained by another child his own age. Because each child views his world literally and in fragments based on his own limited experience, seldom can a group of children be found which can agree on what to do.

The range and diversity of a child's interests frequently are greater than those of the adult. Society tends to limit the interests of an adult, but there are few limits to the imagination of a child.

Just as a child recognizes few barriers to his curiosity, neither does he see through the eyes of an adult. If he has experienced pain, he is more cautious about similar adventures. But if he has not, he has no experience or perspective to warn him of the consequences of his action.

This also is true of fantasy. The small child accepts make-believe, because he can see it. The adult knows it is a fraud, but enjoys it anyway.

Adults are accustomed, if frequently irritated, to be categorized by sociologists, statisticians, entertainment planners and others. But never try to put children in a mold. They have not yet been conditioned by a restrictive society, and what they say, do or think no man, or machine, can predict.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A TOUGH judge in Connecticut handed a hardened criminal concurrent sentences totalling 193 years. The defense attorney complained, "That's ridiculous. He can't possibly do it." The judge, leaving the bench, threw over his shoulder, "Tell him to do the best he can."

Some mathematical genius has figured out that if a forward-looking Roman child in the time of Caesar had deposited a single penny in a savings bank, and had let the interest compound year after year, her balance today would be considerably above twenty-four TRILLION pre-inflation dollars! Gives one pause, doesn't it?

In the days when the Algonquin wits indulged in poker orgies that sometimes lasted twenty and more hours without interruption, a weary group was still trying to fill inside straight when the doorbell rang loudly at 2:00 P.M. The New Yorker Magazine's Harold Ross looked up angrily and rasped, "Now what inconsiderate so-and-so could be calling at such an ungodly hour?"

Three weeks after a good citizen of Glasgow had won the biggest football pool of the decade (over a hundred thousand pounds), his wife asked him, "Andrew, what should I do with all the begging letters?" Andrew, engrossed in his newspaper, answered calmly, "Just keep sending them out!"

Quarrel Over Unionism

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Cesar Chavez, who has never been able to organize the California grape pickers by persuasion, is now within shouting distance of fastening compulsory unionism on the farm workers of the Southwest by his strategy of enlisting key Catholic bishops in his campaign to boycott the stores that handle non-union fruit. The grape growers have been caving in to economic pressure in distant retail markets. The spectacle of good churchmen going down the line for enforced unionism, however, has enraged individual Catholic priests who object to being used by a bishops' committee that pretends to speak for the whole Catholic hierarchy.

Two priests, the Reverend Daniel Lyons, S. J., and Father Cletus Healy, recently toured the grape-growing regions of California from the Coachella Valley near Palm Springs to the Delano table-grape area in the San Joaquin Valley. They found much bitter resentment that a bishops' committee should be interfering in secular economic matters. The plain fact is that the bishops who say they speak for the church are violating the Biblical injunction to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's. Caesar always had the right to collect taxes, but a union is not the equivalent of a State, and whether a man should or should not pay dues and assessments to a non-governmental body is, traditionally, a question that concerns the free choice of the individual human soul. It is, in brief, something that lies between man and god. By a strange irony Cesar Chavez happens to bear Caesar's name in its Spanish form. However, when he tries to collar human beings into his union by compulsion he is confusing his role with that of the Delty, and it is a bitter thing to be Coachella Valley grape growers, 70 per cent of whom happen to be non-Catholic, to see the spokesmen for the bishops' committee, Auxiliary Bishop Joseph Donnelly of Hartford and Monsignor George Higgins of Washington, D. C., not only backing Chavez up but also saying they intend to unionize all the farm workers in America. "As far as we can determine," so Father Lyons and Father Healy say of the Donnelly-Higgins attempt at compulsion, "is a power the committee simply usurped."

Father Lyons talked with workers, employers and local pastors, and he did not find the grape pickers to be oppressed people. They are, in fact, the highest paid agricultural workers in the nation. A pastor in Delano, where many of the pickers have year-round jobs in the vineyards, told Father Lyons and Father Healy that he often said to concerned outsiders, "Go out and find a family that is underfed and come back to me and tell me, so I can feed them." To date the pastor has had no applicants. It is "radical chic" in affluent New York City — Southampton, Long Island, circles to follow Ethel Kennedy in demanding "justice" for grape pickers. But, says Father Lyons, "do not think the workers are clamoring to join the union. As a union organizer, Cesar Chavez has failed miserably to get workers behind him."

The Chavez union, so Father Lyons would like to convey to the radical chic element among the Eastern Establishment, "is a hoax." Chavez has never been able to get more than a handful of workers to go out on strike. He has hired pickets who are non-workers from among the hippies, the members of the SDS, and the characters, whether student or not, who infest the Berkeley campus. But the direct action by interlopers on the strike-picket front has always flopped for Chavez. So he turned from "la huelga" — the strike — to faraway action in front of the chain stores of Chicago, Detroit, Washington and other cities. The boycott has not worked too well in the smaller communities, but the sight of clergymen, particularly priests, picketing the retail markets has hit the big chain stores in the cash register. And the bigger California grape growers have been capitulating to the union.

Father Lyons doesn't like what the whole business is doing to his church. Large numbers of Catholics, he says, "have already been alienated from the Church . . . by the high-handed action of the bishops' committee." Coercion of workers and employers, he concludes, "will become the Church Christ founded."

UP THE POLITICAL LADDER goes Arthur J. Goldberg in Amsterdam, N.Y., to shake hands with a couple of construction workers in his quest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. One of the workmen said his aides should "get a haircut."

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

In one of the newspapers that circulate here, Rep. Robert E. Levitt (R-Canton) made this statement about campus disorders: "Today people get by with little things, tomorrow it's the biggies." The following bit of history should convince my readers that Rep. Levitt should have included yesterday — great grandpa's era.

At Yale from 1866 on the coal yard was fired annually; in 1870, the blaze was accompanied by the smashing of tutor's windows, the mutilation of the chapel organ and the stealing of the Bible. At Bowdoin President Allen's house was deliberately burned in 1839. Old North at Princeton was burned three times.

There was a fair amount of dynamiting at Brown and Harvard. In 1838 some Harvard students tried to blow the roof off the library.

In 1854 Yale undergraduates shot two town people and stabbed another to death.

In 1860 a Yale undergraduate knifed a local boy in a barroom quarrel. In 1843 a sophomore stabbed a tutor to death who attempted to interfere with some window smashing. Both offenders, according to collegiate custom, avoided trial by jumping bail.

In 1836 state troops were called to the University of Virginia campus where students had taken over and were breaking into the professors' homes and amusing themselves with the inmates.

At Cornell, some sophomores attempted to break up a freshman banquet and annihilate the freshman class by pumping the dining room full of chlorine gas. The gas entered the kitchen instead and killed the cook and several others were overcome.

Yale students fought it out with New Haven firemen. Some of the students were seriously wounded and one student drew a pistol and killed the firemen's general.

The foregoing covers just some of the campus capers of bygone years. The days of "boala-boala," the coonskin coat, the pocket flask, when fifty-three live goldfish were swallowed to set a record, I will skip.

What was bugging those Ivy Leaguers of a century and more ago? Communism must be ruled out. Marx and Engels didn't publish their book, the "Communist Manifesto" until after the mid-eighties. Marx's "Das Kapital" came later.

That which can't be ruled out is "permissiveness" and the fact that it didn't originate with this generation.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Opinions now circulating that the stock market and the economy have shaken off the shock of the Penn Central Transportation bankruptcy reorganization appear to be superficial and incredibly premature.

The first shock perhaps; but in the bowels of the economy there are secondary waves that haven't surfaced, and government and business financial specialists are keenly aware of rumblings.

Effects will turn up for years, in American whistle stop hamlets and European financial centers, on campuses dependent upon dividend checks, in banks which made loans, on other railroads which need rolling stock but may find it almost impossible to finance such purchases.

What will foreign investors now think of the stability of American corporations? Will they lose faith in other companies as well?

Money from abroad has become a significant factor in American markets, the total rising to $17.2 billion in 1970 from $13.3 billion five years earlier. Such funds are a prop under some stocks. Will they be withdrawn?

And for students of corporate management: Does the Penn Central's troubles mean that the role of the director should be re-examined? Some Penn Central directors claim they were as poorly informed as the public about finances. Whose fault is that? Whose responsibility?

Can any smart investor henceforth be impressed by a "big name" board, knowing that its members might be performing a function little more than ceremonial while actually sitting in ignorance?

What may be said for the institutions that put millions upon millions of their customers' money into this railroad's stock without knowing the quality of the investment?

Can they simply plead ignorance, while at the same time retaining their dignity as professional managers? Or was there a violation of fiduciary trust?

Was the Interstate Commerce Commission, which amasses data by the ton-literally—unable by existing methods to ascertain the financial condition of a line that carries 20 per cent of the nation's rail traffic?

If this is so, will a mere study of the situation, as the ICC has already launched, be sufficient to protect the public in the future? Or should the ICC itself be studied?

More important, are investor-owned railroads possible in this day and age, or must the federal government, as in so many countries, take over the rails and run them? Are railroads anachronisms, made so by trucks and planes and pipelines? Or are they simply mismanaged and misregulated? A bit of both?

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody's different.

Americans today are thought to be a very conventional people, alike as peas in a pod, snoring the dream of making a big buck and spending it in the same way.

There is some truth to this caricature—but it remains a caricature.

We may be alike in many of the things we do, but we are very much unlike in what we don't do or haven't done. To find how much of an individual you are, sometime take the trouble to sit down and make a list of all the things you haven't got around to doing.

When you then reread the list, you'll be surprised to find how surprisingly different you are from anyone else you know.

For example, after nearly six decades of steady living, I find that I have never yet—

Owned a home.
Bought a share of stock.
Learned to drive an automobile or a motorcycle.

Lived in the suburbs.
Seen a movie at a drive-in theater.

Read "War and Peace," "Das Kapital," or "Alice in Wonderland."

Detected a counterfeit bill.
Turned in a fire alarm.
Yelled, "Stop thief!"
Made a citizen's arrest.
Been on a government payroll.

Won a lottery prize, a medal for bravery, or a court-martial for cowardice.

Sent away a box top for anything.

Written a letter to my congressman—or yours.
Taken the Fifth Amendment.
Grown a beard.

Held anybody in the palm of my hand or known anyone who felt like putty in my fingers.

Walked with kings.
Been asked to cast my straw in a straw vote.

On reviewing my own list of things I haven't done, I find I'm different all right. Too darned different.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

With all the pollution that surrounds us is there any way to tell if a swift flowing stream is safe as drinking water? Our families are campers and we want to be sure that we are not drinking infected water.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R., Wisconsin Dear Mr. and Mrs. R.: Long before the threat of contaminated water became such an important issue, campers were constantly warned against drinking "sparkling clear mountain fresh water." There is no relationship between the appearance of such inviting water and the possibility that it might be contaminated.

Water might even taste delicious and still contain toxic chemicals that might have been poured into the stream at some distance.

In many camping sites all over the United States, the chemical contents and the bacteria count of the water are carefully studied before campers are permitted to drink it. In many instances boiling the water is an added precaution that can prevent illness and avoid spoiling a lovely camping day.

Even swimming in streams should be done only when contamination has been guarded against.

In large and small cities everywhere, the water is constantly being tested for impurities that might unsuspectingly have polluted it. Only by such precautions can we maintain our health.

Twice I have had the unpleasant sensation of a small fly lodging in my ear. Why they pick on my right ear, and not on my left, I can't understand. What can I do if it happens again while I am gardening?

Mr. M. Z., North Carolina Dear M. Z.: I am quite certain that flies are completely unprejudiced about the ear they choose to lodge in. A wise philosopher could probably take the attitude that one should be fortunate that both ears are not invaded.

A simple measure is to anesthetize the fly by putting a few drops of ether or chloroform in the ear canal and blocking it with a piece of cotton. These anesthetics cannot hurt the ear canal and can stop the irritating flutter until the fly can be washed out by your doctor. Alcohol has been tried but it can be irritating to the skin. It might be wise, while gardening, to keep some protective covering over your ears or perhaps keep them plugged with some sheep wool.

I know that using drugs during early pregnancy can be dangerous. Is there any way to reduce the unpleasant morning sickness without them?
Mrs. L. R., Arizona Dear Mrs. R.: It's always wise to avoid medicines early in pregnancy, unless specifically prescribed by your doctor. An obstetrician once observed that eating small quantities of food may reduce the unpleasant symptoms of morning sickness.

Good and reliable sunglasses are an excellent investment and protection.

Solaqua Garden Club Tours Hatfield Garden

Solaqua Garden Club met 11 a.m. Friday at the Robtown Parish Hall. The hostesses, Mrs. Cecil Ward, Mrs. C. W. Hedges and Mrs. Henry Hansen served brunch to 16 members and one guest, Mrs. Lydia Bickel. The table was centered with a floral arrangement of sweet peas made by Mrs. C. W. Hedges.

Following the brunch, Mrs. Charles Huston, president, held a brief business meeting. Mrs. Ward, chairman of the nominating committee announced that the present officers would be retained for the next year. Remaining in office are president, Mrs. Huston; vice president, Mrs. Glenn Rinehart; secretary, Mrs. John Eitel; treasurer, Mrs. Paul Stout.

Announcement was made of the Annual Convention of the Ohio Assn. of Garden Clubs to be held Aug. 12, 13 and 14 at Ashland, Ohio.

Flower Show schedules for the Pickaway County Fair will be obtained and distributed by Mrs. Huston. Twelve members attended the flower show and luncheon held recently at Derby by the Council of Pickaway County Garden Clubs.

At the Ashville 4th of July celebration Mrs. Huston took highest honors in the artistic arrangements with her flower and grain tribute to "The Pickaway Plains."

Mrs. James Hott commented on her trip to Worthington and Carroll where she served as one of the judges of several gardens.

A card was read from Mrs.

Elzie Brooks thanking the club for the planter sent to her during her disability.

After the meeting members visited the Hatfield Daylily Garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hatfield near Circleville with Handy Hatfield in charge of the tour.

Daylilies succeed in all parts of the United States, being as well adapted to culture in the southeastern states and in California as in the northeastern states. They grow in compact clumps, with grasslike graceful foliage and clusters of yellow or orange lily-shaped flowers on tall stems in late spring or early summer. They thrive in any good garden soil, but are especially successful in loam near the margin of a pond or a stream, provided the roots are well above the water level. They grow well in the sun, but prefer partial shade, especially in the warmer parts of the country.

The Hatfield garden is an outstanding attraction in Pickaway County and well worth viewing.

There will be no regular club meeting in August. The next meeting will be in September, time and place to be announced later.

Personals

Mrs. Donald H. Watt and Miss Mary Jane Watt, 540 N. Court St., were luncheon guests of Mrs. Warren Grimes and Mrs. William Creston on Wednesday at Glen Grove Farm in Urbana.

Picnic Postponed By Berger Guild 13

Berger Hospital Guild 13 has postponed its picnic which was scheduled for Friday. It will be rescheduled at a later time.

Calendar

Berger Hospital Guild 30, 7:30 p.m. in home of Mrs. George Miller, Route 1.

The Garden Corner

During the month of July gardeners should remember to spray. They should keep faithfully on schedule. If it rains, spray more often. Use spreader-sticker in all summer sprays, the exact amount prescribed by the manufacturer. To prevent black spots on roses, spray within six hours after every rain. Once annuals become infected with fungus, no amount of spray will cure the infection. Spraying will prevent its spread. To miss one scheduled spray can cause no end of trouble. Remove and burn plants that are infected or branches of infected plants. Clean pruning shears with alcohol.

Keep the bird bath filled, for Juniper scale use Malathion in late July and August. Check stakes on tall growing plants. Cut delphinium spikes immediately after blooming and fertilize for good fall flowering. Pinch hardy chrysanthemums for the last time in mid-July.

Bearded Iris may be divided now. Make clean cuts through the rhizomes with a sharp knife. One fan of leaves is all that is needed for a new plant. Let the cuts dry naturally for a day or two or dust with lime. Allow plenty of space between rhizomes and place the fan in the direction of the desired growth. Add ½ cup superphosphate deep in the soil before planting. Cover the rhizomes with about ¼" soil. Iris need good drainage. Primroses and other perennials may also be divided if the plants are shaded for a few days and kept watered.

Watch for vespa wasp (the big one that digs with four feet like a dog), especially around lilacs. Spray or dust with Chlorodan.

Watch for stray patches or plants of crabgrass. One plant that goes to seed means hundreds next year. The same applies to weeds that are permitted to seed.

Prune climbing roses as soon as blooming is over so strength can go for new canes and buds.

If the lily-of-the-valley bed needs re-making, now is a good time. Separate pips and replant them about four inches apart.

Friday Will Be . . .

our first opportunity to participate in Circleville's Annual Sidewalk Sales. Many gift items for all occasions will be on display in front of our store at very special prices.

The Garden Corner

During the month of July gardeners should remember to spray. They should keep faithfully on schedule. If it rains, spray more often. Use spreader-sticker in all summer sprays, the exact amount prescribed by the manufacturer. To prevent black spots on roses, spray within six hours after every rain. Once annuals become infected with fungus, no amount of spray will cure the infection. Spraying will prevent its spread. To miss one scheduled spray can cause no end of trouble. Remove and burn plants that are infected or branches of infected plants. Clean pruning shears with alcohol.

Keep the bird bath filled, for Juniper scale use Malathion in late July and August. Check stakes on tall growing plants. Cut delphinium spikes immediately after blooming and fertilize for good fall flowering. Pinch hardy chrysanthemums for the last time in mid-July.

Bearded Iris may be divided now. Make clean cuts through the rhizomes with a sharp knife. One fan of leaves is all that is needed for a new plant. Let the cuts dry naturally for a day or two or dust with lime. Allow plenty of space between rhizomes and place the fan in the direction of the desired growth. Add ¼ cup super-phosphate deep in the soil before planting. Cover the rhizomes with about ¼" soil. Iris need good drainage. Primroses and other perennials may also be divided if the plants are shaded for a few days and kept watered.

Watch for vespa wasp (the big one that digs with four feet like a dog), especially around lilacs. Spray or dust with Chlorodan.

Watch for stray patches or plants of crabgrass. One plant that goes to seed means hundreds next year. The same applies to weeds that are permitted to seed.

Prune climbing roses as soon as blooming is over so strength can go for new canes and buds.

If the lily-of-the-valley bed needs re-making, now is a good time. Separate pips and replant them about four inches apart.

Government Tests Of Auto Pollution Flop, Official Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Auto manufacturers have been granted an additional two years to meet a weakened version of federal exhaust standards because government certification tests failed to measure half of the tailpipe pollutants.

John T. Middleton, administrator of the National Air Pollution Control Administration, Tuesday announced the extension with evident embarrassment. But he promised improved testing of 1972 cars.

Because present tests measure only half of the hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions, he said, all 1970 model autos fall significantly short of required federal exhaust reduction standards.

New cars are now certified by the government as meeting emission limits of 2.2 grams of hydrocarbons per mile and 23 grams of carbon monoxide.

But the actual figures, determined by more accurate testing procedures, are 4.6 grams of hydrocarbon and 47 grams of carbon monoxide, Middleton said.

Middleton weakened the current standards 60 per cent for carbon monoxide and 10 per cent for hydrocarbons and gave auto manufacturers until 1972 to meet them.

"Despite the higher figures, the actual quantity of pollutants emitted by cars complying with the proposed 1972 regulations will be less than some 1970 cars that comply with current regulations," he said.

"DOC" CRAWFORD — Broderick Crawford, who starred in "Highway Patrol" in the 1950s, is returning to television this fall as a roughshod doctor in "The Internes." He said, "I go roaring through the hospital like a bull in a china shop, scaring the hell out of the internes."

Stolen Car Headquarters Is Located

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland police said two detectives followed Tuesday a car reported stolen to a stolen car supply depot containing more than $300,000 worth of cars and parts.

Police said the depot at 1310 East 115th Street is believed to be the headquarters of a multimillion-dollar statewide auto theft ring.

The driver of the car being followed escaped, police said. They said eight cars on stolen car lists were found inside the building along with other cars and parts of cars believed to have been stolen.

Over 200 sets of license plates were found, representing cars from five states. Police said the license plates apparently were from cars that had been stolen.

Also found in the shop were eight sticks of dynamite, two heavy explosive bombs and six hydraulic lift trucks, including one lift truck belonging to the U.S. Army.

Threat Of Communism Chilean Campaign Issue

By ISAAC A. LEVI
Associated Press Writer
SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Violence and expressed fears of a Communist takeover have emerged as two main issues in the three-way race for Chile's presidency, up for election September 4.

Five persons have been killed and about 140 wounded in riots over the past four months, prompting President Eduardo Frei's outgoing Christian Democrat administration to declare a state of emergency in key areas.

The rightist National party, backing 74-year-old Jorge Alessandri, a former president, has raised the specter of Soviet tanks if the leftists win.

The leftist candidate, Salvador Allende, 62, veteran Marxist and friend of Cuba's Fidel Castro, has been trying to convince the voters that if elected, he will not meddle with Chile's armed forces or alter the economy of this copper-rich nation along South America's southwest coast.

The leftists have raised specters also, spreading rumors that Frei might call off the election or that there might be a military takeover before then. Frei has denied any such possibilities.

Frei's Christian Democrats are in the race with Radomiro Tomic, 57, party leader and former ambassador to Washington.

His main difficulty has been trying to convince everyone that he will not carry on some of Frei's unpopular measures. Frei's government has been plagued by wage strikes and trouble with leftist elements.

Allende seems to lead the field so far with a campaign based on a call for law and order with resistance to what he claims is a threatened Communist takeover.

Public opinion polls indicate, however, that the election may have to be decided by Congress. Samplings so far show that Allende might have trouble getting the vote majority needed to win outright.

Without a clear majority at the polls, Congress must decide between the two front runners. At the latest count, Allende's forces hold 83 legislative seats against 42 for Alessandri. Tom-

ACLU To File Suit In Kent Searches

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union says it will file a federal court suit in Cleveland next week charging state officials with illegally searching Kent State University dormitories last spring.

Benson Wolman, ACLU executive director, said Ohio highway patrolmen searched the rooms without warrants shortly after four students were shot to death in campus disorders.

"Student privacy was cast aside and university rules were not even followed," he said.

Government Tests Of Auto Pollution Flop, Official Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Auto manufacturers have been granted an additional two years to meet a weakened version of federal exhaust standards because government certification tests failed to measure half of the tailpipe pollutants.

John T. Middleton, administrator of the National Air Pollution Control Administration, Tuesday announced the extension with evident embarrassment. But he promised improved testing of 1972 cars.

Because present tests measure only half of the hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions, he said, all 1970 model autos fall significantly short of required federal exhaust reduction standards.

New cars are now certified by the government as meeting emission limits of 2.2 grams of hydrocarbons per mile and 23 grams of carbon monoxide.

But the actual figures, determined by more accurate testing procedures, are 4.6 grams of hydrocarbon and 47 grams of carbon monoxide, Middleton said.

Middleton weakened the current standards 60 per cent for carbon monoxide and 10 per cent for hydrocarbons and gave auto manufacturers until 1972 to meet them.

"Despite the higher figures, the actual quantity of pollutants emitted by cars complying with the proposed 1972 regulations will be less than some 1970 cars that comply with current regulations," he said.

"This results because the much-improved measurement capabilities of the proposed 1972 procedures produces considerably higher readings for given quantities of emissions," Middleton explained.

The tightened test procedure includes direct measurement of all emissions rather than the present system of partial measurement.

The new procedure also calls for improved detectors for hydrocarbons, and new driving patterns with stop-and-go stresses and cold start-ups that better reflect normal, city auto use.

Middleton said automakers will not be prosecuted for falling short of 1970 regulations because the standard was framed in terms of the faulty test procedure. Technology necessary for the new testing procedure was not available until this year, he contended.

In addition, Middleton said the government will stand by its previously announced plan to enforce more stringent standards for carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons for 1975 cars.

He conceded the testing defects compound the existing problem of one-time government certification of finely-tuned prototype cars rather than periodic checks of production line models.

"It may take a little gut-busting" by manufacturers to pass the new tests, Middleton said. But he said consumers should not have to pay more than $10 for the necessary modifications.

Kent Prof Tells Probers Problems Not On Campus

KENT, Ohio (AP) — A Kent State University history professor told state legislators investigating campus unrest the real problems they should tackle are not on the campus.

John T. Hubbell, assistant professor of history, told the legislative subcommittee Wednesday that "the causes of campus unrest will not be found on the campus."

The campus "cannot be set apart from society at large," Hubbell declared. "If you wish to cure unrest, then look to your first task... to cure the political, economic and social evils that afflict our entire state — and nation, for that matter."

The professor said legislation was needed urgently to correct problems including pollution, "discrimination against the poor," racial discrimination, "equitable law enforcement," and equality of educational opportunities.

Similar testimony came from R. Thomas Myers, assistant professor of chemistry and vice president of the Faculty Senate, who told the legislators he thought the most crucial problems "come from outside the university."

"No matter how difficult it is for us," Myers said, "We must listen to our young people. They are telling it like it is: This war (Vietnam) is... wrong. It is immoral... It is killing off and wounding our young citizens. It is wrecking our economy..."

Jerry Lewis, sociology professor, said he thought students involved in a May 4 confrontation with Ohio National Guard troops on campus did not know the guardsmen were carrying loaded weapons.

Four students were shot to death and nine were wounded in that confrontation.

Lewis said the student demonstrators were "motivated by a real opposition to the war" and what Lewis termed "its extension to the campus," referring to the National Guard troops.

"They also had a sense of security in that they didn't know the guard weapons were loaded," he said.

About 30 persons appeared for the open hearings. They included students, businessmen and townspeople, as well as faculty members.

The Wednesday sessions followed two days of closed sessions during which the legislators talked with college administrators and others. The subcommittee, chaired by Ohio Sen. Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, is one of three of the Ohio Select Legislative Committee on Campus Disorders.

Three Youths Charged With Truancy

Three 15-year-old city school students were given probation in a recent session of Juvenile Court.

Jerry Rayburn, 228 Town St., was placed on probation until his 21st birthday for school truancy and violation of probation. Judge Guy Cline further decreed that Rayburn spend one weekend in detention and complete 100 hours of community work.

Cheryl Lynn Picklesimer, 123 W. Mill St., was brought before the court by school authorities for being absent from school 48 days last term with no valid reason. She was sentenced to three years probation and one day spent in detention.

Leaving school without permission brought Jeffrey Allan Knece, 898 S. Court St., three years probation and 100 hours of community work to complete before the probationary period is up.

In the only traffic case before the court, Michael Eden, Columbus, forfeited $85 on charges of driving without a license and operating an unsafe vehicle filed by the Highway Patrol.

Liggett Speaks At Sertoma Club

The guest speaker at Wednesday's noon luncheon meeting of the Circleville Sertoma Club was Dr. Robert Liggett, 131 W. Union St.

Dr. Liggett presented a slide show and talk on his recent trip to South and Central America. He discussed the conditions in Columbia, on small coastal islands in the Caribbean, and in the Panama Canal Zone. After flying to Columbia, the doctor and his wife traveled from that country to the Canal Zone aboard a small sailing yacht owned by his brother.

Deadline Near For WW II GI Loans

Michael L. Halloran, director, Cleveland Regional Office of the Veterans Administration, said today, that time is running out for about 2,140,000 World War II veterans who have not used their G. I. loan guaranty benefits.

The final cutoff date is July 25, 1970 for those whose loan eligibility has not expired.

The July 25 deadline does not affect eligibility for loans established by military service since 1950.

Loan guaranty benefits are governed by individual expiration dates, based on dates of military service and length of service.

The VA advised Pickaway County World War II Veterans who do not know their expiration dates to get in touch with James Shea, VA administrator for the county, if they are seeking a GI loan. His office is located in the basement of the Courthouse. It will be helpful to have discharge or separation papers handy at the time of contact.

Veterans who know their guaranty terminal dates, but whose applications cannot be submitted to the VA before the July 25 deadline, should have their lenders write or telephone their VA offices to explain the problem, Halloran said.

Under the program, the VA guarantees up to 60 per cent, not to exceed $12,500, of the outstanding balance on home loans for veterans. Over seven and a half million loans amounting to $77 billion have been guaranteed by the VA since the beginning of the program.

CORNING, N.Y. (AP)—Anne Sophia Fabish, 56, of Youngstown, Ohio, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joel Xenia Fabish, 31, of Painted Post, N.Y., were killed Wednesday in a car-truck collision near here.

Cleveland's Transit Strike Continues; Offer Rejected

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland's transit strike continued today after transit officials reportedly rejected a negotiated settlement Wednesday night, but a city spokesman predicted that full garbage service would be restored to the city today.

A union spokesman charged that negotiators reached a tentative agreement to end the two-week-old transit strike Wednesday night, but that the Cleveland Transit System's five-man board rejected the proposal.

Board members, who were called into the negotiating session when it appeared a settlement might be reached, were unavailable for immediate comment on the report.

The spokesman for the Amalgamated Transit Union's Division 268, which represents 1,400 striking drivers and 400 other employees, said the proposed settlement included more money for employees. Workers rejected an earlier 65-cent hourly pay raise over two years offered by CTS and demanded a $1 hike over two years to their present salary of $3.75 an hour.

Robert Beasley, city waste collection commissioner, said he expected the work force to be back to 100 per cent today after more than half of the city's 1,300 waste collectors returned to work Wednesday after an eight-day "sick call."

Beasley said the transit strike and communications problems caused the absenteeism Wednesday.

He discounted the seriousness of threats to two garbage crews Wednesday. One crew was threatened by a carload of men with a gun, but Beasley said the crew remained on the job.

He said he didn't think the men making the threats were collectors or connected with the collectors' union.

Joseph Farinacci, secretary-treasurer of Municipal Foreman and Laborer's Union Local 1099, which represents the garbage collectors said that negotiators are close to an agreement in the strike. Farinacci told his

Metal Workers Reject Contract

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Members of Sheet Metal Workers Local 65 rejected a contract offer Wednesday night that would have ended their 11-week-old strike and provided them a $3 an hour increase over three years.

The wage offer would have given journeymen $10.81 an hour.

Union officials would not say why the contract was turned down, but members said that the dispute was over a clause setting conditions for hiring workers from minority groups.

Kent Prof Tells Probers Problems Not On Campus

KENT, Ohio (AP) — A Kent State University history professor told state legislators investigating campus unrest the real problems they should tackle are not on the campus.

John T. Hubbell, assistant professor of history, told the legislative subcommittee Wednesday that "the causes of campus unrest will not be found on the campus."

The campus "cannot be set apart from society at large," Hubbell declared. "If you wish to cure unrest, then look to

Ohio, Federal Census Data Close

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Preliminary 1970 federal census returns show the Ohio Department of Development's 1969 estimates match closely in eight Ohio counties while missing by almost 15,000 in another.

Although federal returns are not complete and final, the department's economic research division reports their estimates jell with available federal tabulations in Belmont, Coshocton, Geauga, Henry, Knox, Tuscarawas, Vinton and Williams counties.

Federal returns will be complete for all of Ohio in September. Officials then will have a better picture of federal figures and state estimates.

The division estimated an Ohio population of 10,790,424 Jan. 1, 1969. Officials declined to say how the 1970 federal figure will compare.

Of the federal returns for 38 Ohio counties, figures were closest for Knox County where 301 was the difference between federal tabulations and state estimates.

For Mahoning County, the two population figures were 14,629 apart. Federal census takers counted 301,384, while the state estimated 316,013.

The big reason, state officials say, is the unexpected loss of 24,779 persons in the Mahoning County seat of Youngstown. Cause of the loss was a recession in both steel and transportation industries.

Officials say the loss occurred between Jan. 1, 1969, when state figures were released, and April 1970, when the federal census was conducted.

The economic research division is the official state population tabulator and will issue yearly estimates for the state beginning July 1971.

Here are federal and state figures with the latter in parenthesis:

Adams, 18,777 (19,589); Ash-tabula, 97,316 (102,074); Athens, 55,041 (58,631); Belmont, 80,059 (80,847); Butler, 218,201 (228,469); Clermont, 94,730 (105,161); Clinton, 31,060 (33,634); Coshoc-ton, 32,861 (33,345); Darke, 55,431 (50,355); Defiance, 36,924 (35,651); Delaware, 42,568 (40,565).

Franklin, 822,326 (814,729); Geauga, 62,741 (62,148); Henry, 26,748 (27,505); Jackson, 26,935

County Faces Strike Due To Work Cuts

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Unionized Trumbull County employees have threatened to strike Monday unless county commissioners rescind austerity measures taken recently.

Spokesmen for Public Employees Local 506A, which represents fewer than 100 of the county's 700 employees, demanded Tuesday that the commissioners rehire all seven union men who were laid off for economy reasons last month.

They also demanded that all county employees on a half-time austerity schedule be returned to full time and that a six percent cost-of-living adjustment be granted to all union members in accordance with an agreement they said was reached with county officials earlier this year.

Commissioners were given until noon Friday to take action to avoid a strike.

A strike would directly affect maintenance crews, the nursing home, the treasurer's office, the sanitary engineer's office, the dog kennel and the commissioner's office. A similar strike in February, 1969 shut down all county offices for 10 days.

Commissioner Lamar Young said it was impossible for the county to comply with the demands because of lack of finances.

Ohio, Federal Census Data Close

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Preliminary 1970 federal census returns show the Ohio Department of Development's 1969 estimates match closely in eight Ohio counties while missing by almost 15,000 in another.

Although federal returns are not complete and final, the department's economic research division reports their estimates jell with available federal tabulations in Belmont, Coshoc-ton, Geauga, Henry, Knox, Tuscarawas, Vinton and Williams counties.

Federal returns will be complete for all of Ohio in September. Officials then will have a better picture of federal figures and state estimates.

The division estimated an Ohio population of 10,790,424 Jan. 1, 1969. Officials declined to say how the 1970 federal figure will compare.

Of the federal returns for 38 Ohio counties, figures were closest for Knox County where 301 was the difference between federal tabulations and state estimates.

For Mahoning County, the two population figures were 14,629 apart. Federal census takers counted 301,384, while the state estimated 316,013.

The big reason, state officials say, is the unexpected loss of 24,779 persons in the Mahoning County seat of Youngstown. Cause of the loss was a recession in both steel and transportation industries.

Officials say the loss occurred between Jan. 1, 1969, when state figures were released, and April 1970, when the federal census was conducted.

The economic research division is the official state population tabulator and will issue yearly estimates for the state beginning July 1971.

Here are federal and state figures with the latter in parentheses:

Adams, 18,777 (19,589); Ash-tabula, 97,316 (102,074); Athens, 55,041 (58,631); Belmont, 80,059 (80,847); Butler, 218,201 (228,469); Clermont, 94,730 (105,161); Clinton, 31,060 (33,634); Coshoc-ton, 32,861 (33,345); Darke, 55,431 (50,355); Defiance, 36,924 (35,651); Delaware, 42,568 (40,565).

The Children's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library has a section devoted to books for children. Volumes recently added to the Children's Library are reviewed here.

Books, they say, are magic. In a twinkling they can take you to the swamps of the dinosaurs, the dragon fights of days gone by, and the Battle of Gettysburg. Let's consider some faraway places to which books can carry boys and girls.

The Ukraine, this land of the exquisite Easter eggs and intricate embroidery is the setting for "Aunt America" by Joan Berg. Leya, who lived in a small village, was to go to the great city of Kiev to meet Aunt Lydia. Lydia was coming all the way from America, a land Leya could not even imagine. Aunt Lydia loved her even more dearly than she realized at first. In this poignant story, Leya learns about caring so much for someone that you forgive everything in advance.

Peru. "Tomasito and the Golden Llamas" by Jane Castellanos tells about Tomasito and his beautiful dream. His sister, who worked in the hotel, married Señor Jack, from the United States. They invited him to accompany them on the journey north, and he took four llamas with him. They became the gold beasts of his dream.

Soviets Boost A-Sub Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has stepped up construction of missile firing submarines and now is building them at the rate of eight to 10 a year, defense officials say.

If the Soviet construction rate continues at the upper range, Russia's missile firing submarine fleet could achieve parity with the 41-boat U.S. Polaris sub force by mid-1973.

That would be a year earlier than Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's forecast only three months ago when he calculated Russian submarine construction as running at about six to eight boats a year.

Dr. John S. Foster, director of defense research and engineering, told a briefing of young political leaders at the State Department Tuesday the Russians had accelerated the rate of missile-firing submarine building, but he gave no figures.

Pentagon officials later produced the new estimate of eight to 10 boats a year.

At present, the Russians are understood to have about 12 missile-launching submarines in operation, some within striking range of the United States.

American strategists believe Soviet submarine-launched weapons would be targeted on American bomber bases.

This is why the Safeguard antimissile system is intended, in part, to counter a sub-launched blow at the nation's nuclear bomber force.

According to current calculations, the first U.S. Safeguard antimissile sites will not be operational at least until 1975.

The new information on the increased Soviet sub-building rate was disclosed after fresh intelligence analyses in recent days prompted defense officials to conclude the Russians have maintained the momentum of their land-based intercontinental ballistic missile buildup since last year.

has written of it many, many times, but never better than in "Journey from Peppermint Street." For this, he received the international Hans Christian Andersen award, the Newberry medal, and the national book award. Emily McCully did the pictures for this outstanding story.

Africa. "Little Stripe" by Jocelyn Arundel carries a strong message for conservation. Little Stripe is a zebra, protected by his mother from predatory animals. But who is to protect him from man?

Switzerland. Heide is alive and well, still popular as ever. "My Daughter, Nicola," by Ruth M. Arthur, is about another Alpine girl who longs to be the boy her parents wanted. Ruth Arthur has a fine rapport with boys and girls, and her books are loved both here and abroad.

Spain. Julio de Diego has done the outstanding illustrations for "A Stranger in the Spanish Village," by Anita Feagles. de Diego's interpretations have been acclaimed by art critics and shown in many major museums.

French Canada. "The Story of Tit'be and his Friend Maufette" by Barbara Bingley takes us to the woods near Hudson Bay. Tit'be (Little Baby) didn't relish his nickname. After all, he was old enough to go to school. His name, was Francois Maximilian Tremblay. His friend was a baby skunk. He saved Tit'be from a moose. Honest.

Stuntwoman Makes Mark In Filmdom The Hard Way

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Like hundreds of pretty girls in this film capital, Julie Ann Johnson lives to become a movie actress — but to reach her goal she takes bumps, bruises and big chances.

The slender, delicate-looking brunette is a movie stuntwoman. She believes that doing risky scenes actress don't perform is her only chance to make it as an actress herself.

In her six years on the job, Julie, 29, has crashed through windows, rolled downhill backwards in a wheel chair and dangled by a rope ladder from a helicopter above a mountain. Her favorite is fight scenes.

She has been lucky, suffering only bruises, scratches and sore muscles. Her closest call was when she blacked out momentarily after being kicked in the head by a horse, that slid on ice.

Why take such risks? "There's really no other way for me because I do have the talent for stunt work," she says. She feels she learns from top stars by working with them. "And when acting jobs come up, I'll have this experience as a stuntwoman. It's a constant education."

Stuntwork is well paid. Although stunt people negotiate the price of each stunt with film makers, there are common prices. Jerry Christopher, business representative for the Screen Actors Guild, says pay for stuntwomen runs from $50 for things like a motorcycle ride all the way up to $5,000 for something like walking on the wing of an airplane.

Julie explains that almost all stuntwomen—and there are about 20 in Hollywood—either come from stunt families or took part in rodeos. She says she had neither of these advantages.

But she had another advantage: a background in sports, which she calls invaluable. Her father, Art Johnson, has been a junior high school coach for 33 years; her grandfather, former Detroit Tigers outfielder Sam Crawford, is in the Baseball Hall of Fame; and she was a prize-winning athlete at Fullerton, Calif., Union High School.

Her break into the stunt field came when she was working as a production coordinator for a firm making television commercials and it needed somebody to jump over an ironing board. She made the jump, and then started getting calls for other stunts. Julie admits that the current emphasis on fewer action scenes in movies and television has eliminated a lot of jobs. Nevertheless, she says, "It's a very lucrative business."

Alexei Kosygin Is Re-Elected Soviet Premier

MOSCOW (AP) — The Supreme Soviet unanimously re-elected Alexei N. Kosygin premier of the Soviet Union Wednesday. He is to present his cabinet nominations later in the current session of the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet Union's parliament, but there has been no indication whether there will be any changes.

Election of a government is a formality required because this is the first session of the new parliament elected last month. Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev nominated Kosygin at a joint session of the two houses, and he was confirmed by the usual show of hands.

Kosygin, 66, has been premier since Nikita Khrushchev was ousted in 1964. Because he is over 65, there had been some speculation he might choose this short summer session of parliament to retire, but no one was surprised when he continued in office.

'Coco' Chanel Is Depressed At Men's, Women's Looks

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — Indestructible Gabrielle "Coco" Chanel leaned forward, eyes flashing: "fashion should go down into the street, but I don't want it coming up from there."

The designer, who will show her fall and winter lines next week, was talking about the way women look—and men too.

Playful, provocative, witty, intense, her monologue went like this:

"I do not scandalize the world. I am the enemy of eccentricity, and I am most depressed at the way people look. 'Don't the women realize their first duty is to remain feminine and please men? And not try to look 20 when they're 60? Or like a long-haired kid? Why do they do it?"

"The men are just as bad. Believe me, at my age I'm not looking for a lover. But if a long-haired hippie would approach me to make love I would send him packing."

"While they were redecorating my apartment, I had to sit in the lobby of the Ritz watching people stroll by. I have seen every skirt length, from instep to midcalf—I am against midcalf because it cuts the leg in two."

"As you know, I have never changed my hemlines. It has caused a lot of talk. But the other night I went to a restaurant with a friend. He said, 'Quite a few people are agreeing you.' I put on my glasses and imagine my surprise. People were playing a game of make-believe. They were applauding silently in a silent homage. I was very touched."

She turned to a question about her wardrobe for Mrs. Georges Pompidou, wife of the French president.

"I told her and begged her not to wear her red suit on the street. In the country, one may dress as he likes. And I worry because she goes out alone. Surely, I tell her, you can find a friend to accompany you. After all, you are the First Lady now. Alone you might become the target of any wild young revolutionary and he might insult you."

"A friend came to see me the other day, an older man. He had let his silver hair grow long. It looked absurd, I told him this: 'Your wife puts up with it because she wants to avoid a scene. But believe me, she is sorry about it.'"

"Pants. I have given the matter deep thought. Long ago. I was the first to wear pants and set the style. No, it was not at Biarritz, it was Venice, on the Lido."

"I did not like the idea of wet swimsuits. So I picked up four pairs of sailor pants... and wore them with my plain or striped top. The minute they saw me, they wanted them. But they had a big run-around to find any. I had bought the whole stock."

Pants or no pants, Chanel wants woman to remain feminine.

Morgana Gets TV Bid, $25 Fine

CINCINNATI (AP) — A buxom exotic dancer has won an appearance on a national television "talk" show after failing in her latest escapade on a baseball field, her night club associates say.

Morgana Roberts, who was arrested Tuesday night as she ran onto the field at the All-Star game here, received the television invitation following her court appearance Wednesday.

Judge Thomas Nurre of the Hamilton County Municipal Court fined her $25 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct.

"I just wanted to kiss Johnny Bench," she told the judge, referring to the Cincinnati Reds catcher.

"It is up to Mr. Bench if he wants to be kissed, not you," the judge said.

Morgana, who has run onto other major league fields and kissed ball players, performs often at a club in nearby Newport, Ky.

'Coco' Chanel Is Depressed At Men's, Women's Looks

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — Indestructible Gabrielle "Coco" Chanel leaned forward, eyes flashing: "fashion should go down into the street, but I don't want it coming up from there."

The designer, who will show her fall and winter lines next week, was talking about the way women look—and men too. Playful, provocative, witty, intense, her monologue went like this:

"I do not scandalize the world. I am the enemy of eccentricity, and I am most depressed at the way people look. 'Don't the women realize their first duty is to remain feminine and please men? And not try to look 20 when they're 60? Or like a long-haired kid? Why do they do it?"

"The men are just as bad. Believe me, at my age I'm not looking for a lover. But if a long-haired hippie would approach me to make love I would send him packing."

"While they were redecorating my apartment, I had to sit in the lobby of the Ritz watching people stroll by. I have seen every skirt length, from instep to midcalf—I am against midcalf because it cuts the leg in two."

"As you know, I have never changed my hemlines. It has caused a lot of talk. But the other night I went to a restaurant with a friend. He said, 'Quite a few people are agreeing you.' I put on my glasses and imagine my surprise. People were playing a game of make-believe. They were applauding silently in a silent homage. I was very touched."

She turned to a question about her wardrobe for Mrs. Georges Pompidou, wife of the French president.

"I told her and begged her not to wear her red suit on the street. In the country, one may dress as he likes. And I worry because she goes out alone. Surely, I tell her, you can find a friend to accompany you. After all, you are the First Lady now. Alone you might become the target of any wild young revolutionary and he might insult you."

"A friend came to see me the other day, an older man. He had let his silver hair grow long. It looked absurd. I told him this: 'Your wife puts up with it because she wants to avoid a scene. But believe me, she is sorry about it.'"

"Pants. I have given the matter deep thought. Long ago. I was the first to wear pants and set the style. No, it was not at Biarritz, it was Venice, on the Lido."

"I did not like the idea of wet swimsuits. So I picked up four pairs of sailor pants... and wore them with my plain or striped top. The minute they saw me, they wanted them. But they had a big run-around to find any. I had bought the whole stock."

Pants or no pants, Chanel wants woman to remain feminine.

Morgana Gets TV Bid, $25 Fine

CINCINNATI (AP) — A buxom exotic dancer has won an appearance on a national television "talk" show after failing in her latest escapade on a baseball field, her night club associates say.

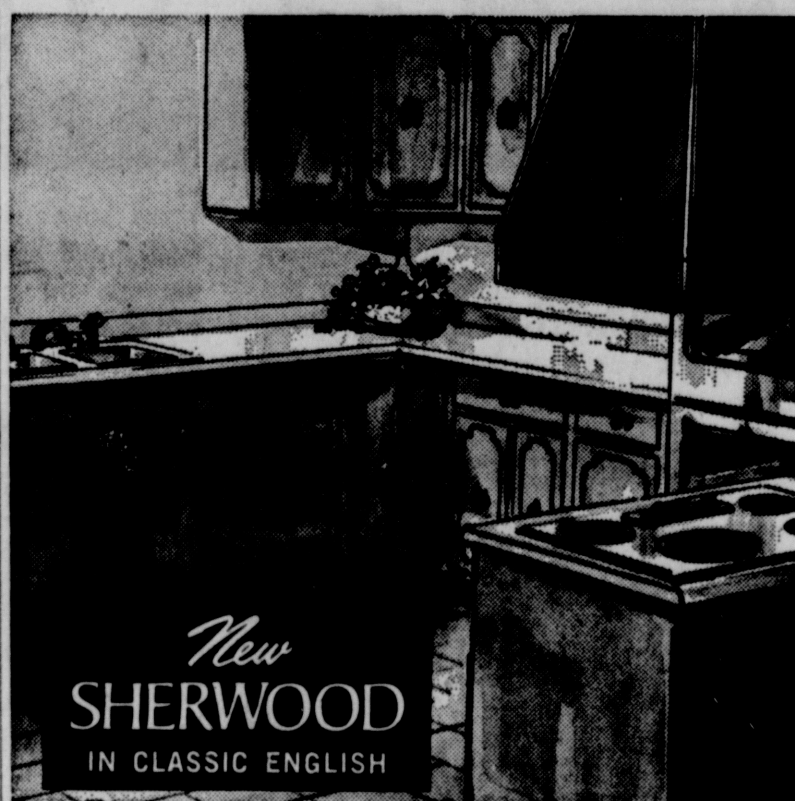

Morgana Roberts, who was arrested Tuesday night as she ran onto the field at the All-Star game here, received the television invitation following her court appearance Wednesday.

Judge Thomas Nurre of the Hamilton County Municipal Court fined her $25 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct.

"I just wanted to kiss Johnny Bench," she told the judge, referring to the Cincinnati Reds catcher.

"It is up to Mr. Bench if he wants to be kissed, not you," the judge said.

Morgana, who has run onto other major league fields and kissed ball players, performs often at a club in nearby Newport, Ky.

Forever young at 70 years, two months, she assumed responsibility for the Herald news column from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wendell Neff, saying, "Let me try it for awhile." That was 30 years ago.

Mrs. Ankrom is genuinely 'home grown'. She was born across the street from her present home in Darbyville, the daughter of the village blacksmith, Charles Neff. She lived outside the town for about three years before returning to

Marshall To Star In Dutch
Musical

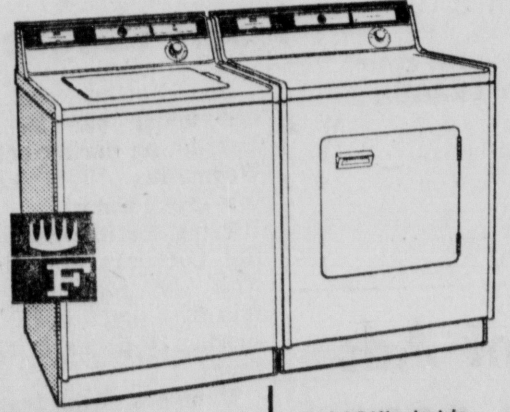

Peter Marshall and Dody Goodman head a great company of singers and dancers in Kenley's upcoming performance of "Plain and Fancy." The musical, a delightful comedy about the "plain folks" of the Pennsylvania Dutch county, will be presented at air-conditioned Veterans Memorial Tuesday through Sunday, July 21-26.

Marshall, star of the television series "Hollywood Squares" and Miss Goodman, a Columbus woman who has made it to the top as television's funniest comedienne, are cast as the "fancy folks" from New York City. Amusing and touching things happen when they become involved in the lives of the plain folks. Young lovers Terry O'Mara and Don McKay and other delightful characters portrayed by Dean Dittmann, Lette Rehols, Rowan Tudor and Robert Weil, round out the cast.

Highlighting the action is the actual building of a barn on stage to song and musical accompaniment. His song in the score by Albert Hague and Arnold B. Horwitt is "Young and Foolish." Others are, "You Can't Miss It," "It Wonders Me," "Why Not Katie?," "Plain We Live," "How Do You Raise A Barn?" "Follow Your Heart," and others.

Week night performances begin at 8:30, 7:30 Sunday, Saturday and Sunday matinees begin at 2:45 p.m.

Mrs. Ankrom said there are not over two or three families in Darbyville that were there when she was growing up. People separated to go different ways when the school was abandoned. Also with the school, went the community social affairs.

Although the current 300 population of Darbyville is made up of families 'new' to Mrs. Ankrom, she describes her hometown as a good community which rallies to support an individual resident or the community itself.

In the interest of the community, Mrs. Ankrom and other members of council are attempting to and hope to revive by the summer of 1971, the once - annual Darbyville Homecoming.

A DEVOUT Darbyvillian vocally, Mrs. Ankrom silently but visibly displays patriotism to her country by flying the American flag sunrise to sunset daily from a flagpole on her expansive lawn. As Herald correspondent, Mrs. Ankrom should never be entirely without news. She can always include the visits from her children who she says, "look forward to coming home and I look forward to their coming."

South Vietnamese Withdraw From U.N. Meet In Anger

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — South Vietnamese delegates angrily withdrew Wednesday from the World Youth Assembly, charging Communist disruption, "fascist maneuvers" and brutal behavior by U.N. employees.

The Vietnamese delegates charged in a letter to Chairman Lars Thalen of Sweden that:

—They had been prevented from speaking by a "permanent campaign of unruly disruption"

Marshall To Star In Dutch Musical

Peter Marshall and Dody Goodman head a great company of singers and dancers in Kenley's upcoming performance of "Plain and Fancy." The musical, a delightful comedy about the "plain folks" of the Pennsylvania Dutch county, will be presented at air-conditioned Veterans Memorial Tuesday through Sunday, July 21-26.

Marshall, star of the television series "Hollywood Squares" and Miss Goodman, a Columbus woman who has made it to the top as television's funniest comedienne, are cast as the "fancy folks" from New York City. Amusing and touching things happen when they become involved in the lives of the plain folks. Young lovers Terry O'Mara and Don McKay and other delightful characters portrayed by Dean Dittmann, Lette Reholds, Rowan Tudor and Robert Weil, round out the cast.

Highlighting the action is the actual building of a barn on stage to song and musical accompaniment. His song in the score by Albert Hague and Arnold B. Horwitt is "Young and Foolish." Others are, "You Can't Miss It," "It Wonders Me," "Why Not Katie?," "Plain We Live," "How Do You Raise A Barn?" "Follow Your Heart," and others.

Week night performances begin at 8:30, 7:30 Sunday, Saturday and Sunday matinees begin at 2:45 p.m.

by Communist delegations.

—Their interpreter, Tran Khanh Van, was "collared and nearly strangled" by five U.N. guards for merely interpreting their request to take the floor in the World Peace Commission Tuesday.

—They had been subjected to "fascist maneuvers," "racial bias" and "the brutal behavior of employees of the United Nations."

A U.N. spokesman said a preliminary investigation showed the interpreter had left the peace commission meeting voluntarily after shouting from the floor.

Meanwhile, the assembly's Commission on Man and Environment voted against recommending that the assembly adopt a resolution calling for legalization of marijuana. Instead it endorsed a resolution stating that drug abuse and alcoholism are harmful to the mental and physical health of young people.

The commission also voted to urge the assembly to declare contraceptives should be made available to all persons. The resolution appealed to Pope Paul VI to reconsider his encyclical banning the use of all birth control methods by Roman Catholics except periodic sexual abstinence.

The Commission on Education recommended that the assembly call for most military appropriations to be diverted to education in the underdeveloped countries.

Pensions Grid Stumbling Block

NEW YORK (AP) — A difference of $7.8 million in pension benefits emerged today as the major stumbling block to a settlement between National Football League players and owners after player's sources revealed their side of the issues.

The owners have offered $18 million in pension and insurance benefits for four years, an average of $4.5 million per year, while the players are asking for $25.8 million, or $6.45 million per year, a source close to the players told the Associated Press. The players were getting $2.8 million each year during the two-year pact which expired, making the $18 million figure an increase of about 53 per cent.

The player's source was answering an earlier Associated Press story quoting club sources as saying the owners were making an $18 million offer, but that the players had countered with a $29 million "must-take-all" demand.

"The $29 million figure never came into the discussions," the player's source said. "It is a piece of incorrect arithmetic. They (the owners) must be adding together everything. Both the $18 million and the $25.8 million figures relate only to pension and insurance benefits."

However, the players are asked for increased shares in post-season games, including the Super Bowl, and these increases possibly could be the difference between $25.8 million and $29 million.

The player's source said the owners also made two qualifications to their figure—that payments to players on losing teams in divisional playoff games be eliminated, and that players give up their financial rights for the use of their names, faces or uniforms in commercial enterprises. This right was granted them during 1968 negotiations.

The player's source said the $18-million figure would cost each club about $40,000 a year, while the $25.8 figure would be about $140,000 a year.

He pointed out that the owners have negotiated a television contract of about $40 million, an increase of about $13 million from the previous one.

Answering owners' fears that television revenue and attendance might not remain at its present level, he said the players were willing to reduce their demands accordingly should that happen.

While the pension issue was clear enough, the issue involving Commissioner Pete Rozelle's powers remained muddled. The players say it has been resolved by their agreeing to make Rozelle the final arbitrator on any non-injury grievance. Club sources, however, said the players still want an outside arbitrator to rule on general grievances filed by players.

While the issues were being made known, the threat to the College All-Star Game in Chicago July 31 lessened when the All-Stars decided to resume organized practice today in Evanston, Ill.

The decision was announced in Chicago by Steve Tannen of the All-Stars and in New York by John Mackey, president of the Players Association.

The All-Star rookies had gone on a sympathy strike Wednesday in support of the NFLPA after the owners had decided to lock the veterans out of training camp until the contract dispute is settled.

"We felt the best course of action would be to resume practice... while still endorsing the Players Association demands," Tannen said.

"We recognize that the All-Stars need more time than Kansas City to train before the game," Mackey said. "... to hold these players out of camp while other rookies are being allowed by the NFLPA to practice would be unfair."

The world champion Kansas City Chiefs opened their rookie

camp Wednesday, along with several other NFL teams.

In other training camp developments, John Carlos, the former Olympic sprinter who signed to play with the Philadelphia Eagles, will be sidelined six weeks. Carlos tore a ligament in his right knee during a workout Tuesday and was to undergo an operation today.

Baseball Season Great For Big Power Hitters

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Only two years ago hitters were moaning loudly and pitchers smiling quietly as the men on the mound dominated the game. Now who's grinning and who's groaning?

Whether it was because of the lowering of the pitching mound, a shortening of the strike zone, expansion, the new artificial fields or a livening of the baseball, 1970 has become the year of the hitters—at least as the second half of the season began today.

In 1968, there were only six .300 hitters in the major leagues—only one in the American League—and just 1,995 home runs, bringing a cry that low run games were turning off the fans.

Things picked up last year when there were 18,300 hitters and more than 3,000 homers, and by the first half of this season, bats were booming more than ever. And the way hitters like Pete Rose and Carl Yastrzemski talked at the All-Star Cincinnati's new Astroturf, the second half of the season will bring more of the same.

As play resumed today with 12 games, there were 39 hitters batting .300 or better and already almost 2,000 home runs in the majors.

The Cincinnati Reds, keeping in tune with the times, are the top hitting team in the majors with 123 home runs and a team batting average of about .277.

Those figures, along with improved pitching over last year, have made the Reds the only runaway leader going into the last half of July.

The biggest surprise in the American League has been the California Angels, who were in last place, 22 games back, at this time last season in the West. The Angels presently are second to Minnesota, five games behind.

Cincinnati's pitching staff has been perhaps the biggest surprise of all. The Reds added rookie Wayne Simpson and Jim McGlothin and Gary Nolan returned from arm trouble to join holdover Jim Merritt, and all four have a chance at 20 victories—no team has ever had four 20-game winners in one season. Merritt has 14, Simpson 13 and McGlothin and Nolan 11 each, joining nine other National League pitchers who have 10 or more victories. The American League has nine.

In 1969, there were 15 20-game winners with a number of them certain not to repeat, Denny McLain of Detroit, after sitting out until July, is without a victory after consecutive seasons of 31 and 24 triumphs; Dave Boswell of Minnesota and Juan Marichal, of San Francisco have only three each, and Bill Singer of Los Angeles, sidelined earlier by hepatitis, has five.

Phil Niekro of Atlanta has only seven and Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees and Larry Dierker of Houston have eight each.

Baltimore has a crack at three 20-gamers in Jim Palmer and Dave McNally, 12 each and Mike Cuellar, 11.

Weekend Fishing Outlook Very Good For Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A "Very Good" outlook for the weekend was forecast for Lake Erie fishermen Wednesday by the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

The fishing conditions by area:
LAKE ERIE — Perch are biting in all lake areas and in Sandusky Bay with white bass being taken in the bay and throughout the island areas. Black bass are being caught in the island areas and along shore reef areas. Walleye are being taken at Niagara Reef, Kelleys reef areas. Freshwater drum are being caught throughout the lake area on worms.

Field men also report channel catfish hitting shrimp around Johnsons Island, The Sandusky Bay, Sandusky Bay and the Portage and Huron Rivers. Perch are being caught on worms and minnows from Port Clinton to Sandusky. Walleyes are being taken by trolling and spinning in reef and island areas.

CENTRAL OHIO — Anglers are taking crappies on minnows and large-mouth bass in the marshy areas and along rocky shorelines of Indian Lake, with artificial nightcrawlers and other artificial bait producing results. Best fishing area at O'Shaughnessy Reservoir is reported to be the U.S. 42 bridge.

NORTHWEST — Clear Ford Reservoir is producing crappies which are hitting minnows in all areas of the lake. An occasional muskie is being taken on large plugs cast into weed beds at Clear Fork, and by trolling with artificial bait. Bass fishing is good in the evenings along the north shore of Clear Fork. At Pleasant Hill large-mouth, an occasional muskie and channel catfish are being caught. At Charles Mill Reservoir bass are biting on plastic worms in the evenings around stump areas, and crappies are hitting minnows in most areas.

NORTHEASTERN — Bluegills are biting in the morning and afternoon at 10-foot depths at Pymatuning, with some walleyes taking the deep spinners. At Leesville Reservoir catfishing is good at night on shrimp and worms. Some good catches also reported at Clendening and Tappan Lakes and Berlin and Mogadore Reservoirs.

SOUTHEASTERN — Walleyes, bass and bluegills being caught on spinners at Salt Fork

Lake, with crappies and bullheads on minnows and worms. The Muskingum River is clear and normal, and good catches of catfish reported on worms and shrimp. The weekend outlook is good.

SOUTHWESTERN — Most streams in this area are clear and normal except in the extreme southern sections where streams are low. Smallmouth and rock bass are being taken on soft crayfish, and channel catfish are being caught on soft craws and carp are hitting doughballs. Weekend outlook is good in this area. At Lake St. Marys good catches of channel catfish and bullheads are reported during the early morning and in late evening on leeches, worms and nightcrawlers.

Ex-Managers Back Umps In Reinstatement Action

BOSTON (AP) — Two former major league managers, both known during their careers for having short tempers with umpires, have contradicted American League President Joe Cronin's evaluation of two umpires he fired in 1968 for being incompetent.

"Very capable," said Dick Williams, former manager of the Boston Red Sox and now coach of the Montreal Expos.

"Very competent," said Eddie Stanky, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago White Sox.

Both men testified Wednesday in the third day of a National Labor Relations Board hearing the cases of Al Salerno and Bill Valentine.

Salerno, a major league umpire for seven years, and Valentine, a six-year veteran, contend in their unfair labor practice suit against the league that they were fired because they were trying to organize a collective bargaining unit for American League umpires.

The league contends, however, that they were fired for being "never at any one time competent."

Both Williams and Stanky were summoned by the NLRB to testify before examiner David Davidson.

A major part of the questioning centered on umpires swearing, which the league says is part of its case against Salerno.

Williams testified that swearing is "used to some extent" by umpires. He said, under questioning by NLRB Counsel Henry Kelleher, that he and Salerno exchanged profanities in a game in 1968 against the Minnesota Twins on a key play. He said, however, that there was nothing unusual about the words exchanged.

Under cross-examination by James Garner, league counsel, Williams said he could not recall any other instances when an umpire swore at him. "This was brought up," he said, "and I remember the incident."

Under further questioning by Garner, Williams said he recalled saying to umpire Jim Honochick in a 1968 game in which he was ejected: "You had a no good, lousy crew all summer and they rubbed off on you."

Salerno said he worked in Honochick's crew about 85 games that year. Valentine said he could not recall exactly, but he worked on Honochick's crew longer than usual, and it may have been all season.

Under further questioning by Kelleher, however, Williams said he did not know who was on Honochick's crew at the time.

"Probably at that time I was very upset," he said. "There are some crews you have trouble with, it just works out that way... Sometimes all the close plays go against you... it does not mean they're not good umpires."

Stanky, now a baseball coach at the University of South Alabama, said he had observed the work of both men. "I sincerely believe," he said, "that when these men come to the major leagues, they are competent."

He also testified that he has heard umpires use "slang, not obscenities" on the ball field.

"I don't approve of obscene language," Stanky said, "I never did. Don't like it."

Patty Larsen Stages Upset Of Lida Mathews In Golf Tilt

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Concentration paid off for 18-year-old Patty Larsen of Toledo in the Women's Ohio Amateur Golf Championship Wednesday at Heather Downs Country Club—her home grounds.

The 110-pound blonde engineered the tournament's biggest upset by handing defending champion Lida Fee Mathews of Portsmouth a 4 and 3 thrashing.

"I honestly didn't think there was any way I could beat Miss Mathews," said Miss Larsen, "but I did want to make a respectable showing. So I made up my mind to play the course and the score card and not my opponent."

"Perhaps I did have an advantage, being from the home course," she continued, "but I wasn't nervous and was able to capitalize on the opening Miss Mathews left me."

Miss Mathews, winner of the at Arizona State University.

state women's crown in 1967 and runnerup in 1968, said: "I didn't play good, but even if I had it would have been a real struggle, for Patty was on target all the way with both her woods and irons. She's going to be a real good one."

Miss Larsen is a sophomore. Her semifinal opponent Thursday will be Mrs. E. W. Oldham of Akron, who moved up at the expense of Mrs. Peter O'Neill of Toledo with a 4 and 3 win.

A semifinalist two years ago, Mrs. Oldham said, "I decided not to use my driver on that tree-lined back nine and started hitting with a two-iron. I'm glad I made the switch when I did."

Also gaining the semifinals were Sharon Klump the tournament medalist from Toledo, and 20-year-old Georgeann McAfee of Logan, a junior at Ohio University.

Miss Klump, a high school counselor, eliminated Mrs. John Whitacre of Canton, who was twice winner of the state crown, while Miss McAfee gained a 5 and 3 victory over 17-year-old Brenda Bradshaw of Alliance.

Survivors of Thursday's 18-hole match will meet in the championship duel over the 36-hole route Friday.

Barnhill's Edges Hap's, 7-5, For 5th Mini Loop Win

Barnhill's topped Hap's, 7-5, in a close fray in the Mosquito league Wednesday night.

Don Hill was the winning moundman for the Barnhill's boys as they cleaned up on the Hap's squad fanning 12 would-be hitters and allowing seven hits. Doug Young took the loss giving up five hits.

For the winning effort, Brad Dye, Hill, Mark Ranck and Rich Elsie hit singles.

Tod Brady was the big hitter of the tilt for the Hap's "9." He tagged three singles and a double in four trips to the plate. Jeff Strawser nailed a double and a single and Young had a single.

Barnhill's is 5-3 for the season while Hap's has a 4-5 record.

Gold Edges Blue In TV Pony Tilt

Teays Valley Gold nipped Teays Valley Blue, 4-3, in a real thriller in Tri County Pony League action.

Jim Logston was the winning hurler for the Gold while Jerry Sabine suffered the Blue loss.

David Archer was the big man at the plate for Gold with a triple and single. Dennis Str had two singles, Randy Wharton a double and Terry Lambert and Logston each added a single in the winning effort.

Terry Athus, Chuck Glitt and Bruce Haines had one baggers for the Blues.

This right was granted them during 1968 negotiations.

The player's source said the $18-million figure would cost each club about $40,000 a year, while the $25.8 figure would be about $140,000 a year.

He pointed out that the owners have negotiated a television contract of about $40 million, an increase of about $13 million from the previous one.

Answering owners' fears that television revenue and attendance might not remain at its present level, he said the players were willing to reduce their demands accordingly should that happen.

While the pension issue was clear enough, the issue involving Commissioner Pete Ro-zelle's powers remained muddled. The players say it has been resolved by their agreeing to make Rozelle the final arbitrator on any non-injury grievance. Club sources, however, said the players still want an outside arbitrator to rule on general grievances filed by players.

While the issues were being made known, the threat to the College All-Star Game in Chicago July 31 lessened when the All-Stars decided to resume organized practice today in Evanston, Ill.

The decision was announced in Chicago by Steve Tannen of the All-Stars and in New York by John Mackey, president of the Players Association.

The All-Star rookies had gone on a sympathy strike Wednesday in support of the NFLPA after the owners had decided to lock the veterans out of training camp until the contract dispute is settled.

"We felt the best course of action would be to resume practice... while still endorsing the Players Association demands," Tannen said.

"We recognize that the All-Stars need more time than Kansas City to train before the game," Mackey said. "... to hold these players out of camp while other rookies are being allowed by the NFLPA to practice would be unfair."

The world champion Kansas City Chiefs opened their rookie

camp Wednesday, along with several other NFL teams.

In other training camp developments, John Carlos, the former Olympic sprinter who signed to play with the Philadelphia Eagles, will be sidelined six weeks. Carlos tore a ligament in his right knee during a workout Tuesday and was to undergo an operation today.

Baseball Season Great For Big Power Hitters

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Only two years ago hitters were moaning loudly and pitchers smiling quietly as the men on the mound dominated the game. Now who's grinning and who's groaning?

Whether it was because of the lowering of the pitching mound, a shortening of the strike zone, expansion, the new artificial fields or a livening of the baseball, 1970 has become the year of the hitters—at least as the second half of the season began today.

In 1968, there were only six .300 hitters in the major leagues—only one in the American League—and just 1,995 home runs, bringing a cry that low run games were turning off the fans.

Things picked up last year when there were 18 .300 hitters and more than 3,000 homers, and by the first half of this season, bats were booming more than ever. And the way hitters like Pete Rose and Carl Yastrzemski talked at the All-Star Cincinnati's new AstroTurf, the second half of the season will bring more of the same.

As play resumed today with 12 games, there were 39 hitters batting .300 or better and already almost 2,000 home runs in the majors.

The Cincinnati Reds, keeping in tune with the times, are the top hitting team in the majors with 123 home runs and a team batting average of about .277. Those figures, along with improved pitching over last year, have made the Reds the only runaway leader going into the last half of July.

The Reds have surprised everyone by taking a 10-game lead at the All-Star break in the National League West, a division that had a tight four-team race last season when the Reds finished fourth.

The biggest surprise in the American League has been the California Angels, who were in last place, 22 games back, at this time last season in the West. The Angels presently are second to Minnesota, five games behind.

Cincinnati's pitching staff has been perhaps the biggest surprise of all. The Reds added rookie Wayne Simpson and Jim McGlothlin and Gary Nolan returned from arm trouble to join holdover Jim Merritt, and all four have a chance at 20 victories—no team has ever had four 20-game winners in one season.

Merritt has 14, Simpson 13 and McGlothlin and Nolan 11 each. Joining nine other National League pitchers who have 10 or more victories. The American League has nine.

In 1969, there were 15 20-game winners with a number of them certain not to repeat. Denny McLain of Detroit, after sitting out until July, is without a victory after consecutive seasons of 31 and 24 triumphs; Dave Boswell of Minnesota and Juan Marichal, of San Francisco have only three each, and Bill Singer of Los Angeles, sidelined earlier by hepatitis, has five.

Only seven and Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees and Larry Dierker of Houston have eight each.

Baltimore has a crack at three 20-gamers in Jim Palmer and Dave McNally, 12 each and Mike Cuellar, 11.

Ex-Managers Back Umps In Reinstatement Action

BOSTON (AP) — Two former major league managers, both known during their careers for having short tempers with umpires, have contradicted American League President Joe Cronin's evaluation of two umpires he fired in 1968 for being incompetent.

"Very capable," said Dick Williams, former manager of the Boston Red Sox and now coach of the Montreal Expos.

"Very competent," said Eddie Stanky, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago White Sox.

Both men testified Wednesday in the third day of a National Labor Relations Board hearing the cases of Al Salerno and Bill Valentine.

Salerno, a major league umpire for seven years, and Valentine, a six-year veteran, contend in their unfair labor practice suit against the league that they were fired because they were "trying to organize a collective bargaining unit for American League umpires."

The league contends, however, that they were fired for being "never at any one time competent."

Both Williams and Stanky were summoned by the NLRB to testify before examiner David Davidson.

A major part of the questioning centered on umpires swearing, which the league says is part of its case against Salerno.

Williams testified that swearing is "used to some extent" by umpires. He said, under questioning by NLRB Counsel Henry Kelleher, that he and Salerno exchanged profanities in a game in 1968 against the Minnesota Twins on a key play. He said, however, that there was nothing unusual about the words exchanged.

Under cross-examination by James Garner, league counsel, Williams said he could not recall any other instances when an umpire swore at him. "This was brought up," he said, "and I remember the incident."

Under further questioning by Garner, Williams said he recalled saying to umpire Jim Honochick in a 1968 game in which he was ejected: "You had a no good, lousy crew all summer and they rubbed off on you."

Salerno said he worked in Honochick's crew about 85 games that year. Valentine said he could not recall exactly, but he worked on Honochick's crew longer than usual, and it may have been all season.

Under further questioning by Kelleher, however, Williams said he did not know who was on Honochick's crew at the time.

"Probably at that time I was very upset," he said. "There are some crews you have trouble with, it just works out that way... Sometimes all the close plays go against you... it does not mean they're not good umpires."

Stanky, now a baseball coach at the University of South Alabama, said he had observed the work of both men. "I sincerely believe," he said, "that when these men come to the major leagues, they are competent."

He also testified that he has heard umpires use "slang, not obscenities" on the ball field.

"I don't approve of obscene language," Stanky said, "I never did. Don't like it."

Patty Larsen Stages Upset Of Lida Mathews In Golf Tilt

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Concentration paid off for 18-year-old Patty Larsen of Toledo in the Women's Ohio Amateur Golf Championship Wednesday at Heather Downs Country Club—her home grounds.

The 110-pound blonde engineered the tournament's biggest upset by handing defending champion Lida Fee Mathews of Portsmouth a 4 and 3 thrashing.

"I honestly didn't think there was any way I could beat Miss Mathews," said Miss Larsen, "but I did want to make a respectable showing. So I made up my mind to play the course and the score card and not my opponent."

"Perhaps I did have an advantage, being from the home course," she continued, "but I wasn't nervous and was able to capitalize on the opening Miss Mathews left me."

Miss Mathews, winner of the at Arizona State University,

state women's crown in 1967 and runnerup in 1968, said: "I didn't play good, but even if I had it would have been a real struggle for Patty was on target all the way with both her woods and irons. She's going to be a real good one."

Miss Larsen is a sophomore. Her semifinal opponent Thursday will be Mrs. E. W. Oldham of Akron, who moved up at the expense of Mrs. Peter O'Neill of Toledo with a 4 and 3 win.

A semi-finalist two years ago, Mrs. Oldham said, "I decided not to use my driver on that tree-lined back nine and started hitting with a two-iron. I'm glad I made the switch when I did."

Also gaining the semi-finals were Sharon Klump of the tournament medalist from Toledo, and 20-year-old Georgeann McAfee of Logan, a junior at Ohio University.

Miss Klump, a high school counselor, eliminated Mrs. John Whitacre of Canton, who was twice winner of the state crown, while Miss McAfee gained a 5 and 3 victory over 17-year-old Brenda Bradshaw of Alliance.

Survivors of Thursday's 18-hole match will meet in the championship duel over the 36-hole route Friday.

Barnhill's Edges Hap's, 7-5, For 5th Mini Loop Win

Barnhill's topped Hap's, 7-5, in a close fray in the Mosquito league Wednesday night.

Don Hill was the winning moundman for the Barnhill's boys as they cleaned up on the Hap's squad fanning 12 would-be hitters and allowing seven hits. Doug Young took the loss giving up five hits.

For the winning effort, Brad Dye, Hill, Mark Ranck and Rich Elsie hit singles.

Tod Brady was the big hitter of the tilt for the Hap's "9." He tagged three singles and a double in four trips to the plate. Jeff Strawser nailed a double and a single and Young had a single.

Barnhill's is 5-3 for the season while Hap's has a 4-5 record.

Piranhas Down Miller Pool In League Meet

Circleville's "Piranha" Swim Team won its second Mt. Pleasant League Meet Wednesday swamping Miller Pool of Lancaster, 37-57, at the Circleville pool.

The local club completely dominated the action winning 32 of 34 individual events and all 18 relays.

Mike Lawter and Mary Reilly captured three events each. Terri Strawser, Nancy Guenther, Jeff Geisler, Dan Stout and Mike Sparks were victorious in two events.

Cindy Sparks, Rock Huggins, John Lawter, Kathy Penn, Brenda Brown, Steve Penn, Jane Guenther, Alan Krieger, Molly Shea, Teressa Stitt, Mike Cairns, Aunda Lintner, Rogann Bowers, Mark Beck, Jane Hawk and Janet Helwagen each put single wins into the local ledger.

Circleville is now 2-0 in the league and will swim against Valley View Thursday.

Gold Edges Blue In TV Pony Tilt

Teays Valley Gold nipped Teays Valley Blue, 4-3, in a real thriller in Tri County Pony League action.

Jim Logston was the winning hurler for the Gold while Jerry Sabine suffered the Blue loss.

David Archer was the big man at the plate for Gold with a triple and single. Dennis Stur had two singles. Randy Lambert and Logston each added a single in the winning effort.

Terry Altus, Chuck Gilt and Bruce Haines had one batters for the Blues.

Doug Sanders Ready To Play At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Doug Sanders lost the British Open Golf championship by a stroke in a playoff but the colorful Georgia native hasn't lost his sense of humor.

Sanders was hitting some balls on the practice tee at Whitmarsh Valley Country Club Wednesday when a spectator inquired: "How do you fade an iron shot?"

Sanders paused a moment, then not only explained a fade, but gave a lesson on a hook, demonstrating both types of shot. When he finished, Sanders looked at the questioner and drawled, "If Arnold Palmer had answered that, it would have cost you $200."

Sanders is here for the $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic, along with his British Open conqueror, Jack Nicklaus. All but four of the tour's top 20 money winners were entered as 147 started the four-day, 72 hole tournament. Missing were Palmer, U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin, Gary Player and Dick Lotz, a two-time winner this year.

In addition to Nicklaus and Sanders, others seeking to dethrone defending champion Dave Hill included leading money winner Lee Trevino, Bruce Devlin, Bob Lunn, Miller Barber, Frank Beard, Billy Casper, Homero Blancas, Bob Charles and Tommy Aaron, all among the top 20 money winners this year.

The 37-year-old Sanders drew a lot of attention from the fans. One spectator shouted, "We ran out of handkerchiefs Doug," referring to the heartbreaking 2½-foot putt he missed on the 18th hole of Saturday's final round of the British Open which forced the 18-hole playoff with Nicklaus.

"Hell's bells we tried," said Sanders. "You can miss them for $1 or for a championship."

Commonwealth Games Open In Scotland

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — Nine guns boom out atop the 820-foot "Arthur's Seat" overlooking the Meadowbank Stadium today to announce the ninth Commonwealth Games are open.

Nearly 2,000 athletes from 42 nations associated with Britain will parade before the Duke of Edinburgh, the husband of Queen Elizabeth II, as the "Friendly Games" get under way.

Nelson Burton Wins

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Nelson Burton Jr. closed to within $5,000 of leader Don Johnson in the Professional Bowlers Association's money standings with his $3,000 win Monday in the $30,000 El Paso Open.

Burton, from St. Louis, now has $31,750 on the tour this year to $36,415 for Johnson, the Akron resident who earned $25,000 of his total with a first place finish in the 1970 Firestone Tournament of Champions in Akron.

Three Rivers Stadium Open In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tonight—after 10 years, $55 million and innumerable labor problems—Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium opens.

A sell-out crowd of 50,235 persons will watch the Pittsburgh Pirates host the Cincinnati Reds. The teams lead their respective National League divisions.

It will be the largest crowd ever to attend a major league baseball game in Pittsburgh.

Three Rivers has a Tartan Turf surface that covers the field at exactly the same places the grass did at Forbes Field.

After a lengthy opening ceremony, following a parade during the day, the Pirates will don new uniforms when they take the field for the National Anthem. For practice they will wear their old ones.

Forbes Field was opened June 30, 1909, and the Pirates went on to win the World Series that year.

Now the Pirates lead the East Division by 1½ games and their fans are hoping for a repeat performance.

BR All-Stars Play Sunday

The Circleville Babe Ruth All-Stars drew a bye in the opening round of the third annual Fayette County Babe Ruth tournament.

They will see action at 4:30 p.m. Sunday against the winner of the Grove City-Gahanna encounter. The tournament is a double elimination affair.

Play takes place at Roetzmann Field which is located on Route 35 west of Washington C. H.

The local glitter squad will practice 9 a.m. Saturday at Ted Lewis Park.

The Columbus Jets racked four Toledo pitchers for 13 hits and 11 walks in clobbering the Mud Hens 13-2 Wednesday night.

Lorenzo Lanier led the Jets' charge with three singles while Angel Mangual drove in four runs with a single, a double and a triple.

Richmond swept a doubleheader from slumping Rochester, 4-1, 5-0, while Syracuse edged Tidewater 10-9 in a 31-hit slugfest that saw the Tides score seven runs in the final two innings to almost pull the game out.

The Louisville at Winnipeg doubleheader was rained out.

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith still dreams of another shot at Nino Benvenuti's world middleweight title and Madison Square Garden officials are ready to pay top dollar to close the match.

ATLANTA (AP) — Norm Van Brocklin, one of the original player representatives in the National Football League, believes the NFL Players Association is not fulfilling the mission for which it was created.

"It was not to create a union or the image of a union," said Van Brocklin, coach and general manager of the Atlanta Falcons. He said the original intention was to "enhance communications between owners and players."

He said that he is "very disturbed" at the prospect of a pro football strike and the stand of the association.

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — "I have confidence we'll win if we hold our momentum," said Leroy Walker, coach of the touring U.S. men's track team as the Americans prepared for tonight's windup of their two-day meet with West Germany.

The American men held a slim 58-48 lead after Wednesday's opening events before 20,000 at Neckar Stadium and walker commented, "I'm very satisfied with the first-night point total after our good performances in tossup events such as the javelin and pole vault."

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Browns' Coach Blanton Collier was to decide today whether to keep the club's rookie camp open or to close it.

Coaches said that with no veterans in attendance there aren't enough players available to conduct many of the practice drills. The veterans aren't scheduled to report until Sunday, but several veterans always show up for early workouts with the rookies.

Savings Bankers Upsets VFW, 14-7

Savings Bank upset the second seeded VFW squad, 14-7 in Pony League action Wednesday night.

Kochheiser leads the race in the Pony loop with a 5-2 season record. Burger Chef now holds the second spot with a 4-2 standings and VFW is third at 4-3.

Savings Bank is 2-4.

Ray Fosse To Travel, But Not Play

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — All-Star catcher Ray Fosse was to travel with the Cleveland Indians today to Kansas City, but he was not expected to play in tonight's opening game of a three-game series with the Royals.

Fosse suffered a painful bruise in his left shoulder in a home plate collision with Pete Rose at the end of Tuesday's All-Star game. Rose scored the winning run on the play.

"It (the shoulder) stiffened up right when it happened," Fosse said Wednesday. "I won't be able to play tomorrow with this pain. It's okay unless I raise my arm . . ."

"The shoulder should loosen up in another 24 hours," Indians' trainer Wally Bock said. "Ray will be sore for three or four days. There's no separation and that's what I was fearful of. It's just badly bruised."

"I thought he (Rose) would go around me," Fosse said of the 12th inning play in which he was injured. "He (Rose) said he started to dive, but had no place to go."

"If he had, it would have saved me a lot of pain," he added, trying to laugh.

Talent, Royalty Dominate Fair Opening

Fair Week is only two weeks away and fair boards have been hard at work with preparations for the 1970 county festival.

Opening night ceremonies have for many years included the selection of the fair king and queen and the talent contest. Winners of the titles last year, Connie Lett and Jeff Reigel, will be on hand Sunday evening to pass their crowns to their successors.

Finalists in the contest of royalty have been selected following a screening by a panel of judges. Nominees are members of local 4-H, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers clubs.

Sixteen candidates will be vying for the title at the upcoming 25th annual fair — eight boys and eight girls. They are:

Betty Jo Bolender, Darlene Collins, Vicki Fraunfelter, Nancy Keller, Cindy McKay, Sally Ann Minor, Patty Schein, Rhonda Wharton, Fred Belle, Wayne Brown, Steve Hines, Larry Kempton, David Long, Maynard Marshall, Rick Pontius and Lewis Trapp.

Performing on the bandstand during the selection of the king and queen will be a dozen talent acts which have earned the privilege to be in final competition on stage. They were the top performers at a preliminary judging held earlier this month.

Representing the Walnut Pipers will be Carol Winter and Cynthia Hedges; the Jackson Jolly Tasters and Basters, three acts featuring Denise Morrison, Sally Ann Minor and Shawna Cummins and Elaine Steinhauser; for the Darby Flying Needles will be Shirley Fields and the Walnut Shichtes, Darlene Neff.

Representing the Un-touchables and Pickaway Beef and Sheep is an all-male group consisting of Greg Strawser, Brad Barr, Tim Burns and Derek Morris. Also in competition will be Barbara and Brenda Bolender for the Soil Savers, 4-H band, Washington Hill Climbers and Buttons and Bows, Junior; Cindy McCabe and Cathy Reed, Mound Street Homemakers; Sue Milburn, Stir and Chatter and Molly Hamrick, Buttons and Bows, Jr.

Both programs will be presented at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Aug. 2 beginning 8 p.m.

The additional $5 billion could be saved, the critics said, by reducing the U.S. military manpower level by 1 million men to 2.5 million. They called for a reduction in U.S. troop strength in Europe from 300,000 to 100,000 men and in Korea from 50,000 to 30,000.

Essentially, the Stennis committee endorsed the basic components of the Pentagon's hardware requests, trimming only the edges of the programs and scuttling none.

The first debate next week probably will be over the Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

7 Children Killed As Bus Overtakes; 52 Are Injured

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Comic books, a baseball cap and other personal belongings scattered across a roadside gully were stark reminders of a bus crash that killed seven children and injured 52 persons Wednesday.

The victims were riding in a bus chartered by the Hill Country Day School of Lawrence, N.Y., when it skidded off a wet highway.

Screaming youngsters were thrown from the bus as it pitched end over end down an embankment. Some were pinned beneath it when it came to rest off U.S. 22, a four-lane highway.

Forty-nine children and 10 adults from the wealthy Long Island community of Lawrence and nearby towns were aboard. They were headed for an overnight outing at the chocolate capital of Hershey and the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

Authorities said the dead ranged in age from 11 to 16. Three of the injured were listed in critical condition.

Talent, Royalty Dominate Fair Opening

Fair Week is only two weeks away and fair boards have been hard at work with preparations for the 1970 county festival.

Opening night ceremonies have for many years included the selection of the fair king and queen and the talent contest. Winners of the titles last year, Connie Lett and Jeff Reigel, will be on hand Sunday evening to pass their crowns to their successors.

Finalists in the contest of royalty have been selected following a screening by a panel of judges. Nominees are members of local 4-H, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers clubs.

Sixteen candidates will be vying for the title at the upcoming 25th annual fair — eight boys and eight girls. They are:

Betty Jo Bolender, Darlene Collins, Vicki Fraunfelder, Nancy Keller, Cindy McKay, Sally Ann Minor, Patty Schein, Rhonda Wharton, Fred Belle, Wayne Brown, Steve Hines, Larry Kempton, David Long, Maynard Marshall, Rick Pontius and Lewis Trapp.

Performing on the bandstand during the selection of the king and queen will be a dozen talent acts which have earned the privilege to be in final competition on stage. They were the top performers at a preliminary judging held earlier this month.

Representing the Walnut Parkers will be Carol Winter and Cynthia Hedges; the Jackson Jolly Tasters and Basters, three acts featuring Denise Morrison, Sally Ann Minor and Shawna Cummins and Elaine Steinhauser; for the Darby Flying Needles will be Shirley Fields and the Walnut Stitches, Darlene Neff.

Both programs will be presented at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Aug. 2 beginning 8 p.m.
